NEW GERMAN NOTE OFFERS REPARATIONS GUARANTEES

Cuno Suggests International Board to Control Income From Railroads, Customs and State Monopolies and to Turn It Into Fund Toward Allied Debts.

WANTS COMMISSION TO FIX ABILITY TO PAY

Cash Moratorium Would Be in Effect Until 1927, but in Meantime Boards Would Supervise Stabilization of Germany.

By ARNO DOSCH-FLEUROT, Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

BERLIN, June 6.—Counsellor left Berlin yesterday for London, Paris, Brussels and Rome, with "an authoritative explanation of the May 2 note, for delivery on Thursday." Chancery Cuno decided to send the memorandum, which is Germany's new reparations offer, Tuesday night.

The correspondent has reason to believe the note was drawn after Herr Cuno received information from London that such an act would receive favorable consideration there.

The memorandum is more precise than was the note it explains and is a political commentary, as was the previous document. The memorandum is about 1800 words long and from what the correspondent is able to learn says:

Germany stands by the first note, but amplifies its terms. It throws all emphasis on an international commission, which is to decide German ability to pay. It agrees in principle that the international commission have power to decide at fresh intervals that ability. In short, it proposes a sort of international reparations commission.

Another international board is to control financial administration of the railroads, customs and state monopolies. This commission is to boom the income of these sources to the reparations account which the allies must distribute among themselves. The memorandum asks that the commission shall not exercise control over the railroads until 1927, but over the other monopolies immediately.

Cash Moratorium Until 1927.

A cash moratorium is to be in effect until 1927, but meanwhile the commissions are to control Germany's stabilization.

After 1927, it is estimated, the railroad profits will bring 500,000,000 gold marks a year.

Industry, finance, commerce and landed proprietors will be obliged to mortgage a portion of their property to the state, the exact percentage being unfixed. However, it is understood, industry offered under certain conditions to pledge a fourth or a fifth of its capital.

The memorandum proposes to issue bonds against this hypothecated property with the bonds under control of still another international commission.

As this is only a memorandum of delivery in kind to the extent of 1,000,000,000 gold marks during the moratorium, cash payments to commence Jan. 1, 1928. The Bourse also reports railroad bonds for 10,000,000,000 gold marks will be offered.

Opposition From Two Sides.

Opposition to this memorandum has already arisen from two sides. First is the German National party, reactionaries, who say the proposals surrender German sovereignty. The landed proprietors, who are the strongest reactionary opposition, have given notice in advance they will not submit.

The second opposition comes from the Socialists. They believe the memorandum is unacceptable to either the British or the French and that Chancellor Cuno is deceiving himself in believing he has British support. Socialists fear the results of Germany's being turned down again.

They say they cannot hold the masses of workers against communist propaganda if Herr Cuno fails. This attitude is borne out by

PAPYRUS WINNER OF ENGLISH DERBY AT EPSOM DOWNS

MANY THOUSANDS SEE ANNUAL CLASSIC

Betting Lively, but Small Odds Are Offered on Winners—Commons Committee Investigates Betting.

By the Associated Press.

EPSOM DOWNS, England, June 6.—Papyrus, by Tracery, out of Miss Matty, owned by B. Irish and ridden by the veteran jockey, Steve Donoghue, won the classic Derby stakes, run here today.

The Earl of Derby's Pharos, by Phalaris, out of Scapa Flow, was second, and M. Goudall's Parth, by Polymelus, out of Willis, was third. Nineteen horses ran.

The betting on Papyrus was 100 to 15 against, Pharos 6 to 1 and Parth 33 to 1 against.

Papyrus won by a length, while half a length separated Pharos and Parth at the finish. Papyrus' time for the mile and one-half was two minutes 28 seconds.

The race was worth more than $25,000 to the winner.

Jockey Entitled to Golden Spurs.

This is the third time in succession that Donoghue has won the blue ribbon of the English turf, thus becoming entitled to wear the gold spurs. Donoghue captured the prize with Humorist, in 1921, and with Capt. Cuttle last year.

By this year's victory the clever Lancashire man's total string of winning mounts in the Derby was run up to five, as he had captured the classic with Humorist, in 1921, and with Gay Crusader in 1917.

Archibald, the American jockey, proved unable to make good the confidence placed upon his mount by his host of American admirers, the heavily played Town Guard, which he rode, not measuring up to form.

The slight rains that fell in the early morning were followed by occasional glimpses of sunshine, but at racing time there was nothing in the weather to cause the spectators to abandon their furs and topcoats.

Viscount Astor had two entries in the race, Saltash and Bold and Bad. Track Enveloped in Mist.

The track was enveloped in mist and at the start the horses could scarcely be discerned. Knockabout, one of Lord Woolavington's entries, Legality, Papyrus and Viscount Astor's Saltash led for the first quarter mile, with Sir A. Bailey's April.

The race then developed itself into a struggle between Papyrus, Pharos and Town Guard, pursued by Legality. Donoghue took up the challenge and, gaining the favored inside position next to the rail, gradually forged ahead. As Papyrus, with magnificent strides, flashed across the finish line there was a hurricane of cheers from the vast concourse of spectators.

The best that Archibald could do was to finish in tenth place, with Town Guard was to finish thirteenth, while Foxhall Keene's Top Boot, the only American-owned horse in the race, came in sixteenth. Oran Britons, Americans and others in the track when the first three horses all began with the letter "P."

The royal family was represented by the Prince of Wales, who was given a rousing reception. Later he inspected the paddock. Eight millionaires had horses entered, but only one participated. Of greater popular interest, perhaps, was the fact that approximately 8,000,000 Britons, Americans and others in the walks of life had some part of their worldly fortunes invested in the race. Pasquale Manal, an Italian restaurant keeper of Fleet street, was worth $25,000 on a sweepstakes.

Thousands Have Ticket on Race.

All England was at Epsom Downs today—here in spirit if not in the flesh—for Britain's greatest festival draws its multitude, despite business depression, unemployment, international complications and income taxes. For every man, woman and child who had a place in the great amphitheater of hills surrounding the track when the 19 thoroughbreds went out to the barrier, there probably were a score, though not present, who had even as lively an interest in the result. These were the countless thousands in whose pockets nestled a sweepstakes ticket, a coveted card which annually admits someone within the gates of financial independence.

The bookmakers, busier perhaps than the oracles, gypsies and peddlers who plied their trades among the colorful crowd, found that in the Carried Down Blazing Stairs by Guest at Rooming House, Who Suffers Burns on Feet and Arm.

When fire broke out today at 2:30 a. m. in a rooming house at 3413 Lucas avenue, the crutches upon which Marie Russell Lasart, 22, was dependent for getting about were in a closet apart from her sleeping room and the closet was on fire.

Her mother's cries brought Wallace Lucas, 25, of 12 North Grand boulevard, who chanced to be staying in the house for the night as guest of his sister, the rooming house proprietor, to the aid of the young woman.

He wrapped her in a blanket and carried her down stairs from the second floor to safety in the street. The stairs were on fire. He had had no time to put on his shoes and both feet and his right forearm were burned. He is a patient at City Hospital.

Twenty-five other roomers were routed into the street. Larry Lawrence tossed his wife and 16-year-old son from a second story window and leaped himself. His wife was slightly injured.

Boarders lost their clothes and Mrs. L. H. Parker, the proprietor, her furnishings which she valued at $1200. The origin of the fire is undetermined.

LEVIATHAN JUNKET FOR CHOSEN 600 TO PROVE COSTLY

Cuban Cruise of Giant Liner, With Lasker's Guests Aboard, Dubbed "Million-Dollar Joy Ride."

LOSS IN TOURIST TRADE POINTED OUT

Trial Trip Already Taken and Engines Given Efficiency Rating, Shipping Men Declare.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, June 6.—The trial trip of the steamship Leviathan may turn out actually to be as it has already been dubbed, a "million-dollar joy ride" for personally chosen guests of Albert D. Lasker, retiring Chairman of the United States Shipping Board.

Estimates of the cost made by shipping men vary, but $200,000 is their minimum. Most of the authorities put it at two-thirds of the operating expense of a transatlantic voyage, which is $400,000 for a vessel of the size of the Leviathan.

Some shipping men, taking into account depreciation and interest on investment, put their estimates higher. If, instead of the run to Cuba and back, the Leviathan should have been put into the European service, just now at its height, she would have earned several hundred thousand dollars. The shipping men who figure in this loss of business find the cost of the trial trip mounting close to $1,000,000.

600 Invited Guests.

The entire expense of the trial trip will come out of the public funds. The bills will not be subject to review by any officers but those of the Shipping Board. The 600 guests who have been, or are to be invited, to the junket are being chosen in the name of the board. The choice rests with Lasker himself, who is staying in office as Chairman until the 4th of July, after which he will resign.

When it was announced that the Leviathan was to be given this sort of trial trip to demonstrate to the public the wisdom and the success of reconditioning her, it was thought that a representative from each congressional district might be invited. Since public money was to be used for the trip, this would have given a nation-wide participation in its spending. There are 435 congressional districts, which would still have left a margin for the 600 guests decided on.

This plan was not followed, however. The lists were made up by employees of the Shipping Board in Washington and New York. Lasker counted on the lists before the invitations were sent out. The scramble to win the favor of an invitation has been lively. It still is, as a matter of fact, since it has become known that the lists are not yet complete.

Will Be Stag Party.

It had also been supposed that since the trip was to be paid for out of public funds, women would be included as an important group of the taxpayers. Chairman Lasker's plan, however, called for a stag party. Not even stewardesses were to be taken along, although a number of reasons for the trip was the "shaking together" of the crew before the Leviathan went into service.

An embarrassing complication has arisen within a few days over this plan. Mrs. Harding has extended invitations to several women to make the trip. A way out of the difficulty has not yet been found, and as knowledge of the quandary has spread plans are coming in from wives and daughters of the men whose invitations have already been accepted.

New Invitations Read.

All the invitations sent out have been mailed under Frank. They read: Albert D. Lasker, Chairman of the United States Shipping Board, on behalf of the Commissioners of the board, requests the pleasure of the company of...

...on the trial trip of the S. S. Leviathan, June 1923. An early answer is requested.

Franked postcards were inclosed for the replies. These, addressed to Chairman Lasker, read: I decline (or accept) the invitation of the United States Shipping Board to take the trial trip of the S. S. Leviathan.

Sent with the invitation is a booklet with the information: "You are among a limited number of persons who have been invited to make the trial trip of the Steamship Leviathan, flagship of the United States Line, as a guest of the United States Shipping Board. The Leviathan is not only the largest...

ICEBERGS FROM THE POLAR AREA CAUSED COOL SPRING, FRENCH ASTRONOMER SAYS

PARIS, June 6.—The unusually cool weather prevailing on both sides of the Atlantic earlier in the season was due to arrival of many icebergs from polar regions, according to Abbe Moireux, director of the Bourges Observatory.

He says, despite sun spots, enough warm spring sunshine fell to earth to quicken vegetation into life as usual but that the plants were then frozen by the icebergs let loose through the mildness of last winter.

PREDICTS REPUBLICANS WILL COMPROMISE WORLD COURT ROW

Senator Watson, After Interview With President, Thinks Senate Will Approve Entry With Reservations.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 6.—Prediction that differences among Republican Senators on the administration would court proposal will be compromised through reservations was made by Senator Watson of Indiana, one of the party leaders, after a conference today with President Harding.

"Approximately 22 Senators, according to best estimates, are distinguished to support the court proposal unless reservations are adopted to make it plain that the United States is not entering the League of Nations," said Senator Watson. "The President has said that the proposal does not mean going into the league and I have no doubt he will accept the reservations to make it certain."

The Indiana Senator said that the consolidation along lines laid down in the transportation question with the President and indicated that one phase of the solution the administration will propose to the next Congress would be compulsory regional consolidation along lines laid down in the transportation act of 1920. The President is expected to make his first pronouncement on the matter during his Western trip.

The Indiana Senator said that the Republican platform in 1924 would make no specific reference to prohibition enforcement, but would contain a declaration for general law enforcement.

FORD LEADS HARDING IN POLL

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, June 6.—Henry Ford jumped into the lead over President Harding with 21,734 votes against the latter's 20,130 in the third week of Collier's nationwide canvass of favorites in the 1924 race. The poll is being conducted by 1020 agents of the magazine. Voters counted to date total $5,000. Harding led Ford last week, at the 50,000 mark. The switch came about when New Jersey suddenly swung into the Ford column, and Ford gained in Massachusetts to within two votes of a tie with Harding. Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont are now in the Ford lineup.

Any reservations, he said, would take the form of a comment inserted in various commission reports.

The new bill must be examined by a number of commissions and several reports on it prepared, so actual ratifications may be delayed many weeks.

Thirteen Men Arrested in New York Raid by Secret Service Men—Fake Whisky and Champagne Labels, With Printing Outfit, Taken.

EXTENSIVE BUSINESS ORGANIZATION BARED

"Should Be Warning to All Those Who Buy Bootleg Liquor With Fancy Label," Declares Chief Operative.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, June 6.—Thirteen men were arrested and millions of bogus Government revenue stamps, whisky and champagne labels, with the plates from which they were printed, were seized by operatives of the United States Secret Service in two raids here last night. It was announced today.

Chief Secret Service Operative Palma, who conducted the raids, declared that the men had been flooding the country with the fake labels. Presses and other printing paraphernalia were seized.

"The case had a manufacturing and distributing organization worked out on standard business lines," Palma said.

Organization Described.

"The chief of the outfit was Alfred Marziano of Brooklyn. Next in importance was Jeff Conrad, the artist, who designed the plates. Then came the photo engraver, who cut the labels. These were given to Antonio Voulo, the go-between, who took them to print shops and had the stamps and labels made. The printers arrested were Pasquale Riccio and Rollo Vassalotta of Brooklyn."

After the goods were all made up they were taken to warehouses for storage and distributed by John J. Spears and Joe Peters in New York and three others in Brooklyn.

Fake Confederate Bills.

The secret service men also seized numerous automatic stamp numbering machines, official Government watermarked prohibition paper, Government prescription blanks and fake Confederate bills.

"This raid should act as a warning," Palma said, "to all those who think they are getting something when they buy bootleg liquor with a fancy label. A well known name doesn't cost any more to print than a poor one. And Federal bonding stamps can be turned out by the million. We have 500,000 right here in the office."

Raid Turned One of Most Important for Months.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 6.—The arrest of 13 men in New York and the seizure there of millions of revenue stamps, medical liquor prescriptions and withdrawal permits was declared today by Chief Moran of the secret service to be one of the most important raids conducted by the Government in many months.

The chief charged that the men arrested had been working with several other groups, one of which manufactured connections sold as liquor, while another employed medical prescriptions to deplete the supplies of legitimate liquor in drug stores and the third used the forged withdrawal permits to obtain liquor from bonded warehouses.

Will Check Withdrawals.

The seizures, Moran predicted, will go far toward destroying what prohibition enforcement agents have found to be one of their most difficult problems—checking forged withdrawals of liquor. He said that in all probability several hundred thousand of the withdrawal blanks were in circulation.

The same situation obtained, the chief added, with respect to doctors' prescription blanks and the strip stamps affixed by the Government when taxes were paid on the liquor. Prohibition headquarters declared today that the widely heralded influx of Eastern Canadian whiskey into the United States had failed to materialize, and that smuggling through New England now is confined almost entirely to small lots in suit cases.

Attempts to smuggle liquor over the Canadian border through New England, it was said, not only had

EXPANSION PLANS OF ST. LOUIS UNDER DISCUSSION AGAIN

Question of Providing Machinery for City to Extend Limits Taken Up by Constitution Convention.

SOME FRIENDS OF PROPOSAL ABSENT

Opponents of Any Adequate Scheme Led by G. H. Williams and Arthur Lashly of Webster Groves.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, June 6.—Whether the Constitutional Convention will design and set up adequate machinery for the expansion of St. Louis is under discussion today.

The odds are somewhat against the city, for many of the delegates who are friendly toward the aspiration of St. Louis are absent, it appearing that Arthur N. Lashly and George H. Williams, both of Webster Groves and both foes of expansion, have the advantage in the early skirmishing.

The convention yesterday perfunctorily approved again its decision reached last November in committee of the whole, authorizing the Legislature to enable Missouri cities with organized fire and police departments to provide pensions for crippled and disabled firemen and policemen and for relief of their widows and children under 16 years of age. This pension scheme is new to St. Louis, already being in effect as to firemen in St. Louis, though its State-wide application is new also.

Utilities Clause Approved. The convention also approved again its tentative grant of power previously extended to cities to acquire by condemnation or otherwise and operate light, heat, power, gas, water and transportation utilities and to supply products to territory beyond their borders if desired. A majority vote of the people would be required, however, to authorize such ventures.

Another section which would enable St. Louis to condemn or otherwise purchase the plant of the West St. Louis Water & Light Co. and consolidate it with the city water system, in the event of expansion of the city into St. Louis County, was adopted again. A city so expanding, however, would be forbidden to go into competition with such an outside utility.

Committed to Two Schemes. As the convention plunged into the expansion fight it already stood committed to two sections previously adopted, one of which would permit St. Louis to extend until it had taken in 11 additional square miles of territory. A favorable majority vote by all of St. Louis County and by voters of St. Louis would be necessary to such expansion.

The defect in this plan is that St. Louis County politicians could get up such an expansion proposal proposing to take in undesirable territory to the south of St. Louis, which likely would be defeated. As the question could be submitted only every three years, this could be used indefinitely to balk a real extension of the city limits.

The other section already adopted contemplated return of the city to St. Louis County after which the city could move its boundaries outward as does any other town in the State. Under that section a board of eight composed of the members of the Board of Estimate and the City Council of St. Louis and the members of the County Court and the County Counselor of St. Louis County would draft detailed plans for necessary adjustments between the city and county, which then would have to be submitted to the voters of both city and county, a majority of those voting in each being necessary for ratification.

Former Circuit Judge Taylor of St. Louis, chairman of the conven-

Abstract of the Belgian Proposals on Reparations

From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch. New York, June 6th.

It appears that purported summaries of this scheme hitherto published in Paris and widely reprinted have been garbled and inaccurate.

The official summary follows:

The Belgian reparations scheme is based on the assumption that the total value of the indemnity is to be 40,000,000,000 gold marks (about $10,000,000,000). It is calculated that service on this debt should be computed at 6 per cent sinking fund, plus a 1 per cent sinking fund. This would work out at 2,600,000,000 gold marks a year. The following receipts are to be applied to this service: One, 1,000,000,000 gold marks from the German State railways; two, 1,500,000,000 from special monopolies; three, 340,000,000 from coal deliveries; total 2,840,000,000.

A special study points out that these State railways yielded in 1913 a profit of more than 600,000,000 gold marks. It is thought this figure could be raised to 1,000,000,000 owing to devaluation of the gold standard. Moreover, the railroads are not now run on sound economic lines as the personnel has increased by 50 per cent, although the administration has been greatly centralized since 1913.

Classification of Monopolies. There follow two sets of tables, relating to freights and fares respectively, showing index numbers for 1913 and 1922. From which it appears that depreciation of the mark has not been compensated for by anything like a corresponding rise in freight and passenger rates.

In regard to the monopolies which are to be assigned in the first instance to the Reparation Commission, which in turn may farm them out to private syndicates, including German interests, it is proposed that they be sold monopolies and not based on production or manufacture. They are classified as follows: Tobacco, 450,000,000 marks per annum; beer, 200,000,000; still wines, 400,000; sparkling wines, 600,000; spirits, 600,000,000; sugar, 130,000,000; salt, 70,000,000; matches and lighters, 20,000,000; total, 1,530,000,000 gold marks per annum.

Proposed taxation is calculated at a figure lower than that actually prevailing in France and England. A special study is made of the Committee on Counties, Cities and Towns, who is leading the fight for realization of the city's aspiration for growth, has offered four new proposed sections evolved after conferences with city planners and others in St. Louis.

One of these sections would enable the Legislature to authorize the creation of incorporated districts to control design, construction and maintenance of highways, streets, alleys, sewers and all public works which might extend over more than one municipality and county; subject to approval of voters residing therein.

Another of these sections would provide for election of a board of 12 freeholders, six from the city and six from the county to draft and propose a plan for expansion of the city and adjust relations of the city extended with the residue of the county to be submitted to voters of both city and county.

A third section would enable creation of a metropolitan planning commission to prepare and enforce comprehensive plans for street arrangement, sanitation and similar phases of public welfare.

The other section goes only to technical detail, of a provision previously adopted.

Proposal by Williams. Williams offered a section authorizing contiguous counties to make joint agreements for the joint planning, construction and use of roads, streets, boulevards, parks, sewers, waterworks and all other public works involving the common good and for the joint use of their schools, libraries and fire departments.

Some delegates among them, for-

Shooting at Long Lake, Mitchell, Ill., Occurred May 24, Day That Live- stock Buyer Disappeared.

The police believe there is a connection between the murder of Joseph Powderly, live stock buyer, whose bullet-ridden body was taken from the Mississippi River Sunday, and a shooting which occurred at Long Lake, Mitchell, Ill., eight miles east of St. Louis.

A coroner's verdict of homicide at the hands of parties unknown to the jury was returned in the case today. Members of the police homicide squad testified they were seeking as a witness a St. Louis gangster said to have been in Powderly's company the night of the shooting at Long Lake.

Powderly, who was 32 years old, left his home at 4545 North Broadway, where he resided with his wife and two children, after supper, May 24. His wife did not worry over his absence as, she said, he frequently absented himself on fishing trips on the East Side.

Frank Hackett, proprietor of the Long Lake fishing resort, informed Sheriff Deimling of Edwardsville that about midnight May 24, when he was serving sandwiches to two men and two women in the back yard, several men in two automobiles came to the resort and the other a sedan, drove up to the place and went into the barroom. Immediately afterward five shots were fired in the barroom and Hackett stated that as he ran through a rear door he saw a man being dragged out by the heels, through the front door.

Body Thrown Into Auto. Hackett said he heard one of the men exclaim, "He's dead," as they pitched the body into the touring car. A man living in Granite City, whose name the Sheriff did not obtain, said he was sitting in his automobile near the front door when the men came out of the barroom and a third man. He said that a man covered him with a revolver and took his automobile keys from him, to prevent pursuit, and ordered the sedan to get away quickly.

Hackett said they did not know how many men were in the crowd, but believed there were five or six, including the one who was shot. They said that a touring car and automobiles started away one of the men jerked the license from the rear of both cars.

Five Italians in a sedan were arrested when they crossed McKinley Street after the shooting. They had no revolver, but a stolen car was found in their possession. They were released when Hackett informed the police he would be unable to identify the men who had been in his barroom and he had only their backs as they were leaving.

Previously Wounded. The police also are seeking to learn whether the fact that Powderly was wounded in the shoulder May 3, in a manner which he did not explain satisfactorily, had any bearing on his being shot to death after leaving home May 24, and his body being cast into the river. When the body was taken from the river Sunday there was a bullet wound in the right side of the head behind the ear, and in the left shoulder and one in the left thigh, in addition to the wound in the right shoulder inflicted May 3.

On May 3, a patrolman heard a shot in the vicinity of the saloon of Charles Dobbins, 5342 North Broadway, and later encountered Probationary Patrolman Leo Schultz, who explained the shot by saying that his pistol had fallen from his pocket in a toilet of the saloon and had been discharged.

Later, however, an examination of the saloon disclosed four bullet holes, not in the toilet, but in the saloon proper. One shattered a bar mirror and another lodged in a bar post.

Neither Dobbins nor his bartender could be induced to tell anything of the shooting, but a witness said that a man who had entered the saloon drew a revolver and began firing in the direction of a cabaret in an adjoining room. He said he could not recall from which of the saloon doors he was directed, but that the man left the saloon and was encountered by a man who stopped him. From this the police Board deduced that the man was Probationary Patrolman Schultz, who was stopped by another policeman, and Schultz was dropped from the Police Department.

Policeman Schultz was taken before Powderly, who said he was not the man who had shot him. The police took a statement that Powderly had parted company with a young woman in the vicinity of the saloon as an indication he might have been the person shot at by whoever fired the shots in the saloon.

Following the finding of Powderly's body in the river, Schultz and John Dobbins, bartender at the saloon and brother of the proprietor, were arrested as witnesses for the case, both later being released on bond.

ST. LOUIS GIRL SOLE WOMAN SURVIVOR IN DANCE MARATHON

Hilda Johnson, Finishing 100th Hour, Will Be Permitted to Try for a Record.

Miss Hilda ("Mickey") Johnson of St. Louis, the lone girl survivor, is still going in the marathon dance at the Coliseum after 100 hours on the floor, and shows no signs of fatigue. She appears fresher than any of the five men competing with her. The physician in charge changed his decision to make her stop at 100 hours, and intends to let her try for the record. Sparky Rawson of Ranger, Tex., dropped out at 4 o'clock this morning. Twenty-two entries started in the contest at 10:45 p. m. Friday.

The accommodations, cooking and entertainment will be of the highest order, and no announcement has been made that no announcement has been made that no announcement has been made.

Six-Day Cruise Planned. "The Leviathan will leave Boston some time between June 10 and June 21, and will cruise southward to the vicinity of Cuba, returning to New York. It will visit no port, there will be no landings, and consequently no passports will be necessary. The cruise will take about six days.

"Guests will bear their own expense from their homes to and from Boston and New York. There will be no expense while on board the ship."

As personnel of Lasker's guests has not been revealed, inquirers at the offices of the Shipping Board in Washington are told that all the invitations have not yet been sent out. I believe the tendency in the French press to interpret Premier Baldwin's optimistic interview with Philip Millet as indicating the British Government is yielding is a grave error.

Baldwin's policy differs from his predecessor's only in this: Andrew Bonar Law objected to French policy and took refuge in disagreement and silence. Baldwin, while not giving way, seeks to thresh out differences.

Paris Demands Opposed. Much offense is given in high quarters here by Paris demands that Britain counsel Germany to cease passive resistance. It is felt that since England disapproved of the occupation of the Ruhr in the first place, she can hardly turn about now and urge the same on Germany. It was said in political circles here that the Attorney-General's action in calling the election to section 11 of the French Constitution, which provides that "When any office becomes vacant, the Governor shall appoint a person to fill such vacancy until such time as the Legislature shall be called to order," is a violation of the contract between the French and British Governments.

DISCUSSION IN BRITAIN TURNS TO BELGIAN PLAN

Suggested Tax for Benefit of Allies on Tobacco and Liquor Meets With Favor.

By JOHN L. BALDWIN.

London Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch, New York World.

(Copyright, 1923.)

LONDON, June 6.—Berlin advices that the German offer will not name a definite sum, on advice from London, is received with pessimism and bewilderment here in official quarters.

The consequent skepticism as to Britain's putting forward acceptable proposals has not, however, led the British to give up hope of a prompt settlement. It has led them to believe it will have to be worked out by the allies with little or no help from the German side.

Discussion now centers on the Belgian plan. British opinion is doubtful as to the Belgian scheme to obtain 1,000,000,000 gold marks a year from general control of German monopolies, the British are more in sympathy, especially with the suggested tax for the benefit of the allies on tobacco, beer, wine and spirits. In England $1,000,000,000 is now raised by liquor taxes, at the $250,000,000 levy on Germany through a similar tax is regarded as practicable.

Would Put Tax on Exports. In a quarter where the general Belgian idea is accepted there is a general tendency to substitute for the railways receipts a tax on exports which, it is said, can be collected in gold from the purchaser. I believe the tendency in the French press to interpret Premier Baldwin's optimistic interview with Philip Millet as indicating the British Government is yielding is a grave error.

Baldwin's policy differs from his predecessor's only in this: Andrew Bonar Law objected to French policy and took refuge in disagreement and silence. Baldwin, while not giving way, seeks to thresh out differences.

GOVERNOR MUST NAME SHERIFF, BARRETT SAYS

Koeln Says He Will Ask Governor to Appoint His Widow.

Vacancy in the office of Sheriff of St. Louis, caused by the death last week of Charles E. Mohr, may be filled only by appointment of the Governor and the person appointed will hold office until a general election in November, it is an opinion furnished to the Post-Dispatch by Attorney-General Barrett today.

After the opinion was furnished, City Collector Koeln, who is friendly with Gov. Hyde, said he would request the Governor to appoint the widow, Mrs. Emma D. Mohr, to the office.

Before his death, Mohr had requested that his brother, Otto Koeln, should be his successor. Koeln said that he had discussed with Oscar his plan to seek appointment for the office of Sheriff. Koeln was willing, as he said, to administer the office as chief deputy. F. Joy was appointed to succeed his husband as Recorder of Deeds at the death of his father, he said, "I am holding all sorts of public positions nowadays."

Calling of a special election which would cost the city from $600 to $1,000, is rendered unnecessary under the opinion of the Attorney-General. Chairman of the Board of the Election Board, as an individual, said he believed the opinion of the Attorney-General should be followed, and a special election the Election Board would ignore the action.

Republican leaders here had proceeded on the theory that the special election would be called by the Board of Aldermen and the Attorney-General's method of selecting party candidates.

McKelvey Mentioned. None of the leaders appearing here have entertained an idea that the vacancy would be filled by the election of a Republican. Practically all of the public City Committees were backing Director of Public Health McKelvey for the Republican nomination for Sheriff.

Director McKelvey's chances for the office were materially increased by the Attorney-General's action in calling the election to section 11 of the French Constitution, which provides that "When any office becomes vacant, the Governor shall appoint a person to fill such vacancy until such time as the Legislature shall be called to order," is a violation of the contract between the French and British Governments.

KNIGHTS OF KAMEIA ESTABLISHED, EMPEROR SAYS, TO SAVE KU KLUX FROM 'SPOLIATION AND DESTRUCTION'

Will Be Separate Body, He Declares

Founder Asserts Everything He Has Striven for Is in Peril of Being Subverted to Sordid Ends.

By the Associated Press. ATLANTA, Ga., June 6.—Establishment of the order of Knights of Kameia as the "primary order of knighthood," with a government separate and distinct from the government now controlling and directing the affairs of the first or probationary order of the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, was proclaimed last night by William Joseph Simmons, "in the exercise of the authority vested in me only as 'Emperor of the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, Inc.'"

"Everything that I have striven to build during the years gone by is in peril of being subverted to perdition, political and sordid ends," he said. "To save the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan from spoliation and destruction, I have determined, to establish the Knights of Kameia, and thereby give the klanmen of the Invisible Empire at least the opportunity to transfer to this primary order of knighthood and establish themselves upon the foundation as laid in the beginning."

Referring to the action of the Imperial Klondium in leaving out of the order of the Knights of Kameia from the women's organization authorized to become affiliated with the Klan under the title of "Imperial Wizard of the Ku Klux Klan, Inc.," he said: "This action on the part of the Imperial Klondium in repudiating the explicit designation of the order of the Knights of Kameia as the primary order of knighthood, was not only a violation of the contract between the French and British Governments, but also a violation of a decree entered by the Supreme Court of the United States in the case of the Ku Klux Klan, Inc. v. United States, Ga., and, further still, a violation of the original charter which defines that male members only shall be admitted to the Order."

Proof of Contention. The opinion, consisting of the pages is devoted almost entirely to the proof of the contention of the Imperial Klondium that there is no such order of either the Constitution, the Imperial Wizard and the Imperial Wizard of the Ku Klux Klan, Inc., while the order of which provides, either directly or indirectly, a method for filling a vacancy in the office of Sheriff in the City of St. Louis.

If the Board of Aldermen should ignore the opinion of the Attorney-General, by calling an election to fill the vacancy, it would be in violation of the contract between the French and British Governments, and would be in violation of the original charter which defines that male members only shall be admitted to the Order."

ACCIDENT VERDICT IN DEATH AT CREAMERY

Electric Current, Presumably Short-Circuited, Proved Fatal to Gustav Maschmeier, 40.

A Coroner's verdict of accident was returned today in the case of Gustav Maschmeier, 40 years old, of 3557 North Twentieth street, mechanical foreman of the Banner Creamery, Warne and Labadie avenues, who died suddenly at 5:50 p. m. Monday, while repairing the interior of a steam boiler at the creamery, with the aid of a 110-volt electric extension light.

The report of an autopsy showed that the electric current, which is presumed to have been short-circuited, caused death. His right cheek and arm were burned. Light company officials have said that a 110-volt current ordinarily would not shock sufficiently to cause death and that a fatal voltage varied with conditions and the victim's health. Richard House of 3635 Lucky street, who was helping Maschmeier, testified the latter had to kneel inside the firebox, on the light cord, to place fire bricks which House handed him, wet from outside. The dampness of the bricks and some wet mortar inside caused the floor to be muddy. House said he heard Maschmeier moan and saw him doubled up over the cord. He yanked the cord out, breaking the lamp, and helped Maschmeier out.

Sherman Randall of 3414 Lucas avenue, fireman at the creamery, said he was shocked twice in helping extricate Maschmeier, once when his knee bumped the boiler and again when he stepped on a metal plate outside on which the wire had been dropped. The breaking of the lamp may have caused a short circuit to produce these shocks. William H. Hatz of 4010 Greer avenue, foreman of the plant, testified the extension cord was of good quality.

RETAILERS OF COAL PROTEST AGAINST U. S. QUESTIONNAIRE

Resolution Charges Discrimination by Federal Coal Commission in Seeking Information.

Protests against questionnaires sent to retail coal dealers by the Federal Coal Commission, requesting a history of the dealers' business for a ten-year period, were contained in a resolution adopted today at the closing session of the Midwest Retail Coal Association, at the American Annex Hotel. About 150 dealers were present.

The resolution declares the questionnaires discriminate against retail dealers by asking for information about their business not requested of other persons in the coal trade.

A request that the Federal Coal Commission compel advertisers of coal to state where it was mined, as a protection against misrepresentation, is contained in another resolution.

Officers of the association elected today are: President, R. D. Kelly, Springfield; vice presidents, W. A. Storr, Hannibal; H. R. Oglesby, Warrensburg; P. L. Rupp, Chillicothe; F. W. Schramm, Farmington; secretary, Fred A. Parker, St. Louis; treasurer, F. W. Autenreith, Clayton; and Commissioner, E. J. Wallace, St. Louis.

MRS. CROKER DENIES KNOWING GUY MARONE

Widow Questioned at Hearing About Man She Is Accused of Marrying.

By the Associated Press.

DUBLIN, June 6.—The heart of the Richard Croker will contest case was reached yesterday when counsel for Mrs. Eileen C. White of Cedar-hurst, N. Y., daughter of Croker, cross-examined Mrs. Croker concerning Guy R. Marone, to whom Mrs. White charges Mrs. Croker was married at the time she married Mr.
Croker.

When asked if she knew Marone,
Mrs. Croker's answer was direct denial. She said she never had heard of Marone until she read a story in a Boston newspaper outlining the charges against her with regard to him. All efforts of the cross-examiner to challenge dates and the story Mrs. Croker gave on direct examination failed.

Counsel for Mrs. White confronted Mrs. Croker with witnesses from Northampton, Mass. Mrs. Croker denied that she had ever seen any of them previously. The supposition in the courtroom was that the Americans came to Dublin to identify Mrs.
Croker as the "Indian Princess" they knew in Northampton Moncton, New Brunswick.

Mrs. Hattie Adkins of Muskogee, Ok., testified to knowing Mrs. Croker for the last 16 years and described her as a "perfect lady."

While under cross-examination,
Mrs. Croker denied that she had ever made charges against Richard Croker Jr. This was in answer to questions tending to show that she had influenced her husband against his children.

His counsel's suggestion that she had destroyed the codicil of the will, she described the codicil merely as a trial will and said she saw her husband burn it at Glencairn, his Irish home, a copy being retained at the Hibernian Bank. Dr. Lennon testified that Mr. Croker in December, 1921, told him he had destroyed this will.

SOCIALISTS SAY HINDENBURG AND HITLER HAVE ARMY OF 500,000

Nationalist Forces Organized Secretely to Combat Reds, It Is Alleged.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch.
(Copyright, 1933.)

BERLIN, June 6.—Bavarian Socialists yesterday made public charges that Gen. Ludendorff and Adolph Hitler, leader of the Facist, are at the head of the army of 500,000 Nationalists scattered throughout Germany.

The purpose of this gigantic organization, the Socialists declare, was mapped out in secrecy to combat the Red Hundertschaften, which are growing side by side with the reactionary forces.

According to the charges, Gen.
Ludendorff is keeping sedulously in the background with his army to avoid political embarrassment, but the Socialists maintain he personally superintended all details of organization. Hitler is said to be the recruiting officer with Gen. von Tui-schek as his aid.

The Socialists' charges are based on reports of their agents. They say there are 50 regiments of 10,000 men each—18 in Prussia, 4 in Bavaria, 7 in Saxony and Upper Silesia, 5 each in Baden and Wurttemberg, 3 in Pomerania, 3 in Thuringia and 5 in the North Sea provinces.

It is declared that only 200,000 actually are under arms, the others being reserves to be called out in an emergency. It is pointed out such an army would be of little use in an actual war against foreign forces, but it may be the decisive factor in the internal struggle the Hundertschaften are contemplating.

Connecticut Dry Laws to Stand.

By the Associated Press.
HARTFORD, Conn., June 6.—An attempt to repeal the State laws concerning the enforcement of prohibition has failed. A resolution directing the Legislative Judiciary Committee, which ignored the repeal bill, to make a report, was passed by the Senate yesterday, but was referred by the House to the next Legislature.

ALTON NEGRO CHURCH SPLITS OVER PASTOR

Old Timers Get Injunction Barring Him From Union Baptist Parsonage and Pulpit.

The Union Baptist Church of Alton is in the throes of disunion over the question whether the church shall be run by old-time Alton darkeys or by Southern negroes who have been brought into the fold by Pastor J. W. Pitts.

Seventy-seven of the old-timers have obtained an injunction restraining the Rev. Mr. Pitts from preaching in the Union Baptist pulpit and giving him until next Saturday to get out of the parsonage. But Pastor Pitts has his following, and last Sunday they gathered around him at his home and listened with edification to his customary admonitions.

There has been trouble at Union Church most of the time since last July, when Pitts took charge. The 77 say that even the manner of his coming was not according to Baptist regulations. They assert that when Pitts came to talk it over with the deacons, a meeting was called for a Monday in April, but that Pitts cut in ahead of the Monday meeting and held one on Sunday and, to give it a touch of added dignity, invited the pastor of a white church to preside. The question before the house was whether Brother Pitts should be called, on the motion to call him, everybody, members and nonmembers, voted. Brother Pitts heard the call and became the shepherd of the flock.

Eighty off, Brother Pitts began fetching in Southern negroes and therewith strengthening the faction with which he had elected to cast his lot. These Southern negroes, backing in the approval of the preacher, put on airs which sorely tried the spirits of the old-timers who had borne the burdens in old Union Church.

Pitts had his own ideas about how a Baptist church should be conducted. He could not do much with the deacons, so he established the Junior Board of Deacons, which took things out of the hands of the regular deacons and raised the parson's salary from $20 to $31 a week, whereupon Pitts announced that anybody who tried to "unsettle" the affairs of the church would be put out.

One after another the leading lights of the church were extinguished. May 29, the anti-Pitts faction held a meeting and declared the pulpit vacant. Pitts ignored them. The old-time members tried to hold a meeting last week, but somebody banged on the piano and Brother Pitts started the doxology and a riot call was sent in, so nothing could be done.

The seventy and seven say they are a majority, but that Pitts maintains his hold by counting as members all who attend services, whether they come to hear the Gospel or in expectation of a ruction.

WOMAN INDICTED ON CHARGE OF POISONING MOTHER-IN-LAW

Mrs. Mary Creighton of Newark Already Is Awaiting Trial for Death of Her Brother.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, June 6.—Mrs. Mary Creighton of Newark, N. J., who, with her husband, John, has been awaiting trial several weeks on a charge of poisoning her brother, Charles Raymond Avery, 13 years old, was indicted yesterday on a charge of poisoning her mother-in-law, Mrs. Walter J. Creighton, whose death occurred two years ago. The body was exhumed two days after the Creightons were indicted for Avery's death.

The second indictment against Mrs. Creighton followed the report of Dr. Alard Edl, Newark city chemist, that he had found poison in the stomach, lungs and liver of the elder Mrs. Creighton.

A neighbor of the younger Creighton, whose name is withheld, is alleged to have testified that the elder Mrs. Creighton, shortly before her death, told her of having been given cocoa which had a peculiar taste.

The Creightons were assigned May 12 in a Newark court, charged with murder. Mrs. Creighton was placed under police guard at the city hospital, where several days ago she gave birth to a son. She also has a daughter. The couple are accused of poisoning young Avery, who lived with them and had taken out a $1000 life insurance policy in which Mary Creighton was named as beneficiary. Avery died April 20, Mrs. Walter J. Creighton died Dec. 2, 1920.

6-OUNCE EGG, WORLD'S LARGEST

OLATHE, Kan., June 6.—"Betty," a white orpington hen, has shattered the world's record for the largest egg. Her product weighs six ounces—one ounce heavier than any other on record—is seven and one-half inches around one way, and nine inches the other.

"Betty" is the property of John Willinson. At the last Johnson County poultry show she was awarded the blue ribbon as the finest hen in the exhibition.

Miss Gollithan Not in Contest.

Mrs. H. C. Gollithan, 5055 Page boulevard, says that the "G. G. Gollithan" printed in last Saturday's official program of the world's championship marathon dance contest at the Coliseum as one of the entrants, is not her daughter, whose initials are the same. Mrs. Gollithan said she and her daughter were humiliated by the publication of the name because many acquaintances believed it was that of Miss Gollithan of the Page boulevard address.

PAINTER 'PAINTS THINGS RED'

Lands in Alcoholic Ward After Finding Jug in House.

A painter, working on interior decoration of the home of Arthur A. Scharf, 5771 Waterman avenue, yesterday found a jug of pre-prohibition whisky in the house and soon thereafter started to "paint things red."

He chased a houseman who protested at the uninvited consumption of the liquor, around the house with a club and created such turmoil that police were called.

Physicians at City Hospital, where the painter was taken as a prisoner, placed him in the alcoholic ward.

This Laxative Works
Fine on Old People

Thousands have kept themselves healthy with Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin

ADVANCING age with its subdued ambitions and strivings could be made very happy if only good health accompanied it, the water you drink and the exercise you take, so much the better. But if nature will not operate it must be assisted or sickness will follow. Neglected constipation causes the blood pressure to go up 25 per cent, and that is the forerunner of hardening of the arteries. It makes rheumatism and gout worse, too.

The ideal constipation remedy for people of advancing years is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, a vegetable compound of Egyptian senna and pepsin with pleasant-tasting aromatics. It is gentle and mild, and does not cramp or gripe. It is a mistake to think you need a violent salt or powder or pill, calomel, coal-tar drugs and such things. They purge and

ANY FAMILY MAY TRY IT FREE

Thousands of parents are asking themselves, "Where can I find a trustworthy laxative that anyone in the family can use when constipated?" I urge you to try Syrup Pepsin. I will gladly provide a liberal free sample bottle, sufficient for an adequate test. Write me where to send it. Address Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 245 Washington St., Monticello, Illinois. Do it now!

weaken you, and their reaction tends to make you more constipated than before. Now try the milder method. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin does not lose its good effect with repeated use, and increased doses are unnecessary. Mrs. E. M. Burgess of Enfield, N. C., who is 73, keeps herself in good health with it, and Mr. Charles Chorman of Stapleton, Staten Island, N. Y., wasted fifteen years and considerable money on other remedies before finding steady relief with Syrup Pepsin.

Use Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin yourself the next time you suffer from constipation, biliousness, headache, sleeplessness, indigestion, piles or night cramps. Many thousands of elderly people use nothing else, and it costs them less than a cent a dose. Druggists have sold it successfully for 30 years, and it is the most widely bought family laxative in the world.

EUROPE, MRS. CATT SAYS

She Declares That Woman Movement Is the One United Project in World.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, June 6.—The women's movement is the one movement in the world not calling names or mobilizing armies, Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, suffrage leader, recently returned from a six months' trip abroad, declared yesterday before the League of Women Voters.

"I came back with the conviction that woman suffrage is as firmly planted in Europe as in the United States," she said.

"There is nothing wrong with the woman movement the world over; it is the one united movement in the world."

Mrs. Catt said she had gone to Central Europe to help women organize to retain the political and personal freedom they had gained after the war, but that she had found the women there protecting their newly-found freedom.

Everywhere, she said, were convinced the time had not come to dissolve their organizations.

The Latin peoples, she declared, once had been the wall in the path of women's suffrage, but now, she said, "the wave has leaped the wall and is rolling through the Orient as well."

In Rome, she said, she received certain information that the Roman Catholic Church would not oppose the enfranchisement of women. By next year, she declared, she hoped the Mohammedans will have capitulated.

The suffrage leader expressed the opinion that the women of South America are a long way from the vote as yet. First, she said, they must be educated and must obtain the nullification of the Napoleonic code under which they live. South America must wait a decade for women's suffrage, she declared.

She urged that the United States lead the way out of the European maze through some form of international co-operation. She expressed the opinion that unless something were done the Ruhr conflict would shake the foundation of the world. Already, she added, it was referred to in France and Germany as "the war."

ZEITUN'S ATTORNEYS DEMAND THAT DAVIES PRODUCE WILL

Citation Issued at Liberty, Mo., Calls on St. Louis Lawyer for Document He Bought in London.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
LIBERTY, Mo., June 6.—The expected demand of attorneys for Harry Lello Zeitun of London, chief beneficiary under an alleged second will of Mrs. Julia Wood Davies, on George Westman Davies, St. Louis opera singer, to produce the will, was made yesterday in the Clay County Probate Court.

The demand was made in the form of a citation to the United States A. Stokes of St. Louis, Davies' attorney, to bring the will into court. It was made by Hunt C. Moore, Zeitun's attorney.

Stokes declared he came in possession of the will when he took over the estate of Mrs. Davies from her New York attorneys. He said he later received a bill from Firth &amp; Co., lawyers of London, and paid it without knowing that the bill was for services in drawing up the documents in behalf of Zeitun.

Stokes said he would surrender the will if the Davies estate were reimbursed for the amount paid the London firm.

This payment, Stokes held, was an obligation of Zeitun's and not of the Davies' estate.

The second will involved in Zeitun's claim is said to be dated May 8, 1922, six months after the first will had been admitted to probate and which gave virtually all of Mrs. Davies' $200,000 estate to her husband, Davies. Zeitun says he is a former Captain in the British army, is sole legatee of the residue of Mrs. Davies' estate under the subsequent will, which cut off Davies with nothing.

KNICKERBOCKER GRILL CLOSED

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, June 6.—Federal prohibition forces yesterday disclosed part of their future policy of controlling illicit liquor traffic without the aid of the Mullin-Gage enforcement act, when they closed by court order the Knickerbocker Grill for six months.

At the same time Police Commissioners, Sheriffs and State troopers throughout the State were notified by Palmer Canfield, State Prohibition Director, that they were responsible for the enforcement of the Federal prohibition law.

All business in other sections of the store had to be suspended last Friday, on the occasion of our former $5 Wash Dress offering, to meet the terrific demand for these Frocks. Crushed Strawberry Jam
For this jam it is necessary that each berry be broken up. Therefore, crush about 3 quart-size berries in separate portions, so that each berry is crushed. This allows fruit to quickly absorb the sugar during the short boil. Measure 4 level cups (2 lbs.) crushed berries into large kettle. Add 7 level cups (2 lbs.) sugar and mix well. Use hottest fire and stir constantly before and while boiling. Boil hard for one full minute, remove from fire and stir in 1/4 cup (1/2 ounce) Certo. Carefully, remove from fire and stir in 1/4 cup (1/2 ounce) Certo. Stir occasionally by the clock, before pouring. In the meantime skim, and stir occasionally by the clock, before pouring. If in open glasses paraffin at once. If in jars seal at once and invert for 10 minutes to sterilize the tops. Use same recipe for Raspberry, Blackberry or Loganberry jam.

Pineapple and Strawberry Jam
Crush well about 1 qt. ripe berries. Put pineapple through food cutter, or chop very fine. Measure 3 level cups (1 lb.) of each into large kettle. Add 7 level cups (2 lbs.) sugar and mix well. Use hottest fire and stir constantly before and while boiling. Boil hard for 1 minute, remove from fire and stir in 1/4 cup (1/2 ounce) Certo. Skim and pour quickly.

U. S. PLAN TO CONTROL OPIUM TRADE ACCEPTED

League Advisory Commission
Adopts Resolution Embodying General Principles.

By the Associated Press.
GENEVA, June 6.—The American delegation and the other members of the opium advisory commission of the League of Nations, after lengthy consultations made an arrangement last night, which was accepted by all parties with minor reservations.

The resolution adopted by the commission says that "the advisory commission on traffic in opium accepts the proposals of the representatives of the United States as embodying general principles by which governments should be guided in dealing with the question of the abuse of dangerous drugs, and on which, in fact, the international convention of 1913 was based, subject to the following reservations by the representatives of France, Germany, Great Britain, Japan, The Netherlands, Portugal and Spain:

"The use of prepared opium and the production, export and import of raw opium for that purpose is legitimate so long as that use is subject to and in accordance with the provisions of chapter 2 of the convention."

"The commission, appreciating the great value of the co-operation of the Government of the United States in the efforts the league has been making for the last two years to deal with the question of the abuse of dangerous drugs, expresses the belief that all the governments concerned should be desirous of co-operating with that Government in giving the fullest possible effect to the convention."

The resolution then recalls the steps taken to attain the same ends by the commission and says that as a means of giving effect to the principles submitted by the representatives of the United States, the commission recommends to the council the advisability of inviting the governments of the states in which morphine, heroin and cocaine and their respective salts are manufactured and those in which raw opium and coca leaf are produced for export and manufacture, the governments in which the use of opium is temporarily continued under the provisions of chapter 2 of the convention, and the Government of China to enter into immediate negotiations for the purpose of considering whether agreements can now be reached as to the limitation of the amounts of morphine, heroin and cocaine and their respective salts to be manufactured; as to limitations of the amounts of raw opium and coca leaf to be imported for that purpose and other medicinal and scientific purposes, and as to the limitation of production for export for such medicinal and scientific purposes.

MORE POLICE CASES IN MAY THAN IN SAME MONTH OF 1922

Of 3630 Cases Heard 2134 Were Traffic Violators Who Paid $4938 of $6262 Fines Collected.

A review of the records of the two Police Courts for the month of May shows an increase in the number of cases tried and fines collected over the corresponding month last year.

Last month 3630 cases were heard, of which 2134 were traffic violations. In May a year ago 2623 cases were tried, of which 1849 were traffic violations. In the month just closed $4938 in fines was received from traffic violators out of the total of $6262 collected in all cases. In May last year total fines collected amounted to $4696, of which $3782 was from traffic cases.

Records show that speeders are not only the best paying customers the Police Courts have, but are practically always found guilty of the offenses charged. Of the 259 speed cases tried in both courts last month 254 were fined. The increase in traffic cases this year is due to the inauguration of the boulevard stop law and a stricter enforcement of the ordinance regulating parking in the business district.

ARMOUR PRESIDENT CRITICISES GOVERNMENT

Lending Thoughtful Ear to Those Who Decry Big Business, F. Edson White Says.

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, June 6.—Instead of endeavoring to aid the "packers" in solving problems of distribution and improving their ability to serve the public, the Government is lending a thoughtful ear to those who decry big business, F. Edson White, president of Armour & Co., declared in an address prepared for delivery today at the weekly meeting of the Chicago Association of Commerce.

"It would seem that the relationship between business and the nation's prosperity is so apparent that only the feeble-minded would fight business," he said. "Business, however, is the target for a great many men who are quite the reverse of being feeble-minded, men who are strong minded to the point of being asinine."

"There exists in our country a class of short-sighted and long-haired individuals who seem to feel that they were created especially to combat anything that savors of business and the bigger the business the more they show in fighting it. This bunch of strong minded zealots has actually succeeded in making a great many people feel that big business is a thing to be feared."

"The specter of monopoly is the bogey man that they hold up before a frightened public. To this class of agitators monopoly is the last word in all that is damnable. They paint a horrible picture of the more and trials and tribulations that would come upon the public if 'big business' should get an unduly large percentage of the trade in any community. They ignore facts as to the benefits of big volumes and blind their eyes completely to knowledge that in a great many industries, which are well managed and which render good service at narrow margins, one or two or a half dozen firms handle the bulk of the business."

"There is no monopoly and no danger of monopoly in the meat business. There are no patent rights or trade secrets which prevent any man who wants to from engaging in the handling of meat, and if it ever came to pass that fat profits were being made at the expense of the producing and consuming public, those very profits would attract such competition and so divide the business that the evils complained of would be eliminated."

What Causes Wrinkles? What's the Remedy?

Stop to consider what produces wrinkles and sagging of skin. Premature aging, malnutrition, etc., cause the flesh to shrink. Lose its youthful plumpness and firmness. The skin then is too large for the flesh underneath; doesn't fit tightly and snugly as it used to—it wrinkles or sags. It must be plain that to tighten the skin, make it fit the face perfectly in every place, will effectively remove the hateful wrinkles and bagginess. This is easily and harmoniously accomplished by dissolving an ounce of pure powdered axolite in a half pint of witch hazel, using the solution as a face wash. The ingredients you can get at any drug store, of course. The results are surprising. The skin immediately tightens, becomes firm and fresh as in youth. Every wrinkle and sag are affected at once.

NEWTON ASSAILS RAIL ABUSES AT DINNER TO HIM

Urges Law Co-ordinating Rail and Water Lines and Completion of All Inland River Projects.
RUINOUS COMPETITION SHOULD END, HE SAYS
Declares Abundant Capital Will Be Available for River Equipment if Investors Are Protected by Legislation.

Two steps are necessary to provide adequate transportation in the United States, Congressman Cleveland A. Newton, said last night in a speech at a testimonial dinner in his honor at Hotel Jefferson. They are:

1. The projects for the improvement of our inland rivers, which have been established by act of Congress, should be completed in order that those rivers may be made ready and available for navigation.

2. The rail abuses, such as cut-throat rates and an unfair division of freight collected by joint rail and water haul, should be abolished by law, and the rail and water lines should be converted from conflicting, contending forces to a co-ordinated, co-operative system, endeavoring to serve the commerce of the country. When such legislation is enacted which will guarantee to the investor of river equipment freedom from ruinous and confiscatory competition, abundant capital will be available for investment in river equipment, sufficient to supply every demand of commerce for river transportation.

Newton said that co-ordinated use of hard-surfaced highways, the railroads and the waterways will be necessary to satisfactorily meet transportation needs of the future. Following the thought expressed by him in several recent addresses, the Congressman said that the nation primarily is not interested in roads, railroads and rivers, as such, but because of their adaptability for transportation purposes.

Shipping Facilities Needed.
"The crying need of the country is larger facilities for transportation; facilities able to meet the demands of commerce and capable of rendering a cheaper service," he said.

Railway officials generally no longer antagonize the development and use of waterways, Congressman Newton said. There are exceptions to this rule, however, he added, telling of a railway president who declared opposition to waterways because they were improved at public expense while railway improvements were made at private cost.

"It is true that the railroads are expending hundreds of millions of dollars for new equipment and other improvements," the Congressman said. "But their revenue comes from the freight which they are collecting, and the shipper pays the freight and charges it up to the cost of commodities which the general public must buy. In other words, the public through freight rates, is paying for every dollar's worth of improvements which railroads are making."

General Public Paying.
"We must have greater facilities for transportation and private capital will not advance the funds. The Interstate Commerce Commission, recognizing this fact, has increased the rail rates so that the shipper and the general public are required to furnish the funds which private capital will not supply, because the investment is not attractive. If the general public must furnish the funds with which to build new equipment to meet our ever increasing transportation needs, what difference does it make whether they pay it in the form of taxes or excessive railroad rates?"

Further answering arguments against improvement of rivers by the Government Congressman Newton said that land grants to railroads contain an area greater than that of the original 13 states and that in the past four years in excess of $2,000,000,000 had been expended on highways of the country. He said the successful operation of the Government barge line on the Mississippi River had demonstrated that river transportation is cheap and practical.

The dinner was arranged by a citizens' committee, headed by A. L. Shapleigh, and the Waterways Committee of the Chamber of Commerce, of which W. E. Kavanaugh is chairman. Kavanaugh presided. The testimonial was in recognition of the successful fight led by Newton in his campaign for river improvements from 1927, when he was elected to Congress, to 1933.

NEWTON ASSAILS RAIL ABUSES AT DINNER TO HIM

Urges Law Co-ordinating Rail and Water Lines and Completion of All Inland River Projects.

RUINOUS COMPETITION SHOULD END, HE SAYS

Declares Abundant Capital
Will Be Available for River Equipment if Investors Are Protected by Legislation.

Two steps are necessary to provide adequate transportation in the United States, Congressman Cleveland A.
Newton, of the Tenth (St. Louis) District, said last night in a speech at a testimonial dinner in his honor at Hotel Jefferson. They are:

1. The projects for the improvement of our inland rivers, which have been established by act of Congress, should be completed in order that those rivers may be made ready and available for navigation.

2. The rail abuses, such as cut-throat rates and an unfair division of freight collected by joint rail and water haul, should be abolished by law, and the rail and water lines should be converted from conflicting, contending forces to a co-ordinated, co-operative system, endeavoring to serve the commerce of the country. When such legislation is enacted which will guarantee to the investor of river equipment freedom from ruinous and confiscatory competition, abundant capital will be available for investment in river equipment, sufficient to supply every demand of commerce for river transportation.

Newton said that co-ordinated use of hard-surfaced highways, the railroads and the waterways will be necessary to satisfy the transportation needs of the future.
Following the thought expressed by him in several recent addresses, the Congressman said that the nation is not interested in roads, railroads and rivers, as such, but because of their adaptability for transportation purposes.

Shipping Facilities Needed.
"The crying need of the country is larger facilities for transportation, facilities able to meet the demands of commerce and capable of rendering a cheaper service," he said.
Railway officials generally no longer sympathize the development and use of waterways, Congressman Newton said. There are exceptions to this rule, however, he added, telling of a railway president who declared opposition to waterways because they were improved, at substantial expense while railway improvements were from private capital.

"It is true that the railroads are expending hundreds of millions of dollars for new equipment and other improvements," he said.
"But their revenues come from the freight which they are collecting, and the shipper pays the freight and charges it up to the cost of commodities which the general public must buy. In other words, the public through excessive freight rates, is paying for every dollar's worth of improvements which railroads are making."

General Public Paying.
"We must have greater facilities for transportation and private capital will not advance the funds. The Interstate Commerce Commission, recognizing this fact, has increased the rail rates so that the shipper and the general public are required to furnish the funds which private capital will not supply, because the investment is not attractive. If the general public must furnish the funds with which to build new equipment to meet our ever increasing transportation needs, what difference does it make whether they pay it in the form of taxes or excessive freight rates?"

Further answering arguments against improvement of rivers by the Government, Congressman Newton said that land grants to railroads contain an area greater than that of the original 13 states and that in the past four years in excess of $2,000,- 000,000 had been expended on highways of the country. He said the successful operation of the Government barge line on the Mississippi River had demonstrated that river transportation is cheap and practical.
The dinner was arranged by a citizens' committee, headed by A. L.
Shapleigh, and the Waterways Committee of the Chamber of Commerce, of which W. K. Kavanaugh is chairman. Kavanaugh presided. The testimonial was in recognition of the successful fight led by Newton which resulted in Congress increasing the appropriation for river development from $37,000,000 to $55,000,000.

Artificial Lightning, Representing 2,000,000 Volts, Is Set Loose and Then Controlled in Experiments

Million Horsepower Concentrated Fraction of Second in Flash Over Miniature Village at Electric Plant at Pittsfield, Mass.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
PITTSFIELD, Mass., June 6.—A man-made flash of lightning, releasing for the fraction of a second a tremendous force, was set loose with a resounding crash in the huge steel-walled laboratory of the General Electric Co. here yesterday afternoon.

The flash represented 2,000,000 volts, said to have been twice the force ever produced in any previous experiment with artificial lightning. In it there was concentrated for an extremely brief period, more than 1,000,000 horsepower.
The full fury of this force, controlled and directed at the will of an electrician, whose hand rested on a small switch, was turned on a miniature village that had been reconstructed on the laboratory floor. Heavy blocks of wood were splintered.
A realistic electrical storm was manufactured before the eyes of a score of newspaper men and engineers. In some tests even rain was produced.

Behind these startling experiments, in which pygmies attempt to toy unconcernedly with terrifying natural forces, lies only the constant effort of engineers to prove high tension mission lines and to study the action and effects of lightning in the hope of nullifying its destructive power.

Startling Mental By-Product.
Out of the tests, however, has come a startling mental by-product, opening a fascinating field for future experimentation. As yet it can be no more than conjecture. It has been discovered that when the artificial lightning strikes a block of wood, part of the wood disappears and cannot be accounted for. A small hole is found bored through a shattered block. It has not been burned out. The wood gives off a peculiar, pungent odor. That portion of the wood which has disappeared may have been transferred onto another element, perhaps a gas.
On this subject, however, the engineers show the reticence of scientists who have no conclusive proofs before them.

Like Charles P. Steinmetz, the Schenectady wizard, they are wondering seriously whether tuncatun lightning can be transformed into helium gas. They think experiments in this direction well worth while.

On this phase of the tests, Glauco-poulos, chief electrical engineer of the Pittsfield works, chatted distinctly with newspaper men. Like Prof. Steinmetz he is crippled. His journey through the maze of complicated equipment in the plant is made in a wheel chair.

"Nature stores up energy for untold ages," he remarked. "Changes take place and we dig into the earth to get coal. Perhaps this long process can be shortened. Who knows? Perhaps we can apply a tremendous force for a short period and bring about the change we seek.
This, of course, is nothing more than conjecture."

Newton's activities were praised by a number of former Congressmen present. Congressman Charles Nagle, Secretary of Commerce during the Taft administration; Major-General Lansing H. Beach, chief of engineers of the United States Army; Gov.
Hyde of Missouri.

Condemning Arguments as 'Unworthy and Untenable'

'PUBLIC DEMAND SET

Organized Religion Warranted in Demanding Indefensible Regime Come to End, Declaration Avers.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, June 6.—Representatives of 50,000,000 Protestants, Catholics and Jews joined forces today in a statement condemning as unworthy and untenable the arguments of the committee of the American Iron and Steel Institute which recently reported unfavorably on the proposed elimination of the 12-hour day in the steel industry.

The report, made by Elmer H.
Gary, chairman of the United States Steel Corporation, at a meeting of the Institute in New York and there adopted, was characterized in the statement as "shattering public confidence."

"The forces of organized religion in this country are now warranted," the statement asserted, "in declaring that this normally indefensible regime of the 12-hour day must come to an end. A further report is due from the iron and steel institute—
a report of a very different tenor."

The statement, put forth in the name of the committee on the part of the church and social service of the Federal Council of Churches, the social action department of the National Catholic Welfare Council and the Social Justice Commission of the American Jewish Congress, reads in part:

"The report of the committee on proposed total elimination of the 12-hour day, approved by a majority of the iron and steel institute, shatters the public confidence that was inspired by the creation of the committee a year ago at the request of the House of Commons. It is a definite rejection of the proposal for the abolition of the long day."

Public Demand Set Aside.
"The public demand in response to which the committee was appointed is set aside as a 'sentiment' which is not created or endorsed by the workmen themselves. The 'testimony' of the committee, 'including eminent engineering societies' is ignored and the conclusion is put forth without supporting data that the 12-hour day has not of itself caused an injury to the employees, physically, mentally or morally. This statement is made in the face of the fact that the committee of stockholders of the United States Steel Corporation, appointed in 1912 to investigate this matter, expressed the opinion that the 12-hour day of labor, followed continuously by a number of years means a decreasing of the efficiency of the workers and the religion and virility of such men."

JAPAN TO SUBMIT TERMS TO OFFER, RUSSIAN ENVOY

Cabinet to Outline Conditions Under Which Gov-

sume Negotiations.

LENGTHY DISCUSSIONS WILL BE NECESSARY

Previous Conference, Called to Re-Establish Trade Relations, Ended in Failure Last September.

TOKIO, June 6.—The Cabinet at a session this afternoon decided to submit to A. A. Joffe, the envoy of soviet Russia, who is now in Japan, conditions under which the imperial Government is willing to resume negotiations with the soviet Government.

It was agreed that the conditions as outlined by the Government should be submitted to Joffe through Viscount Goto, who has been in constant communication with the soviet envoy since the latter's arrival in Japan some months ago.

While the conditions decided upon by the Cabinet were not made public, it is expected lengthy preliminary negotiations will be necessary before a solution of the various problems now separating both Governments can be reached.

Invited by Viscount.
Joffe arrived in Japan last January ostensibly to visit the Japanese Hot Springs for his health. It was subsequently announced that he had come at the personal invitation of Viscount Goto, at that time Mayor of Tokyo. Heretofore Joffe's presence in Japan has never been formally acknowledged by the Japanese Government.

Viscount Goto, however, received the soviet envoy and a number of conferences were held. Later Goto resigned his official position as head of the Tokyo Government for the purpose of working for closer relations between Russia and Japan.

The Changchun conference between representatives of Japan and the soviet Government, called to re-establish commercial relations between the two countries, ended in failure last September. The rock on which the negotiations split was the Nikolaievsk massacre.

UPHAM WIRE HE WON'T RESIGN

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, June 6.—Fred Upham, treasurer of the Republican National Committee, has sent a telegram to the Chicago Herald and Examiner saying that he is in perfect accord with President Harding and will not resign as treasurer. Upham is enroute to Europe on a mission. It has been reported and denied that differences of John T. Adams, chairman of the committee, with President Harding, over the world court, had caused a rupture, the report being made public after Upham's departure.

SHORTAGE PLEA ANSWERED.
"The plea that a shortage of labor makes impracticable the change from two to three shifts of workmen affords but a meager defense. The shortage of labor was not the reason for the failure to abolish the long day two years ago, when the public waited expectantly for such a salutary step on the part of the United States Steel Corporation. At that time there was appalling unemployment which could have been in large measure relieved in steel manufacturing districts by introducing the three-shift system in the steel industry. The task may be more difficult now than it would have been then, but a past delinquency affords no release from a present moral obligation."

"The steel institute's committee contends that workmen themselves prefer the long hours. Undoubtedly there are those who will voluntarily work long hours. Undoubtedly there are those who will voluntarily work long hours to their own hurt, but the committee's contention is chiefly significant as showing that workmen whose only choice is between abnormally long hours of labor and earnings that are insufficient to maintain a family on a level of health and decency, naturally adopt the more arduous alternative."

One Rednecking Feature.
"It exalts a misconceived 'law of supply and demand' to a position of equal authority with the law of justice. It excuses inhumanities in the name of economic necessity. Furthermore, it overlooks an important series of demonstrations within the steel industry and elsewhere, which show that a powerful corporation, which has accumulated an enormous surplus should be organized in such a manner as to be able to meet the needs of the community."

"The forces of organized religion in America are now warranted in declaring that this morally indefensible regime of the 12-hour day must come to an end. A further report is due from the iron and steel institute
—a report of a very different tenor."

John Cheesire, president of the Thirty Club of London, presented the claims of the British delegation emphasizing the international trade opportunities which the convention would offer to American adver-

NET INCOMES IN U. S. DECLINE 4 BILLIONS IN YEAR

Total $19,577,212,528 for 1921 — Collections Fall Off $7,217,350 in Missouri in Same Period.

10,320 MORE PERSONS PAY IN THIS STATE.

State Income Collections in St. Louis This Year Total
$1,242,742.11, Leaving $347,101 Unpaid.

Twenty-one persons in the United States reported incomes exceeding $1,000,000 during the calendar year ending Dec. 31, 1921. It is shown by figures made public today by the Treasury Department.

This is a decrease of 12 from the $1,000,000 incomes reported in 1920 and compares with 65 in 1919, 67 in 1918, 141 in 1917 and 206 in 1916, the highest since the income tax has been operative.

Net incomes aggregating $19,577,
212,528, on which Federal income taxes (normal tax and surtax) of $7,217,350 were collected from $6,662,176 individuals, were reported in 1921. Corporation returns will be made public later.

There was a decrease of $97,746, or 8.3 per cent, in the number of returns filed. The total net income reported was less by $4,158,416,659, or 17.5 per cent, than in 1920. Tax collections decreased $356,466,690, or 31.08 per cent.

The tax collections show an average of $107.98 per return and the average net income per return amounted to $2,938.56.
Only 6.28 per cent of the total population while income tax in 1921 while the percentage for the previous year was 6.85.

Largest Share in New York.
New York bore the largest total income tax burden of any State, with 1,068,637 taxpayers remitting $110,- 785,379—29.3 per cent of the total collections. Pennsylvania with 621,- 103 returns, was second, paying $48,660,520 in taxes, while Illinois was third, its returns totaling $11,- 558, from which $8,574,351 in taxes were collected.

While the Government collected taxes from more than $19,000,000, 100 in income, it granted exemptions from taxes on income aggregating $14,000,000,000 through personal and other exemptions.

The statistics show that 116,356 women filed returns as heads of families while 608,829 other women reported individual incomes.

The amount of net income reported from dividends, and therefore not subject to the normal tax, was $2,- 474,263,591. Net income exempt from normal tax because of personal exemption and credit for dependents amounted to $14,911,855,700 and from interest on Government obligations not wholly exempt from tax to $46,994,406.

Income from personal service—salaries, wages, commissions, bonuses, directors' fees, etc.—amounted to $13,813,161, while $68,829 other women reported individual incomes.

The Missouri figures show that while 10,320 more individuals made returns in 1921 than in 1

THE POST-DISPATCH PLAT-FORM.

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles, that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare, never be satisfied with merely printing news, always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE.

The name and address of the author must accompany every contribution, but on request will not be published. Letters not exceeding 200 words will receive preference.

No Coercion Wanted.

I HAVE just returned from a business trip on account of the Community Council and Community Fund and have had my attention called to a letter signed "Something for You, Madam" appearing in a recent number of the Post-Dispatch, in which the writer says she is employed by one of the city's great department stores and feels that she is being coerced to contribute to the Community Fund. I wish to assure this lady and all other contributors to the Community Fund that the Community Fund has not the slightest idea of coercing anyone to contribute and that if coercion is being exercised it is entirely contrary to the wishes and policy of the Community Fund.

The Community Fund is based absolutely on the policy of securing interested and willing contributors who give because they want to help, according to whatever financial ability they have, in the work of serving their less fortunate citizens and in making St. Louis the best possible place for all its people to live and to work and to play. The Community Fund has cheerfully canceled the subscriptions of contributors who, after pledging themselves to pay, have found that on account of sickness or any other difficulty they are unable to live up to their pledges. If the contributor who wrote she is, we shall be delighted to follow the same course with her as with any other contributor who either feels that she has been coerced or who having made a pledge in entire good faith, feels that she cannot now live up to it. The only possible basis of success for the Community Fund is good will and this must be maintained at all cost. The Community Fund must evidently have the money to serve the 130,000 people or so who are being helped by its 40 member organizations. We believe that there are enough willing contributors able to give, to supply the necessary money without requiring payment from a single person who is unwilling or unable to contribute.

ELWOOD STREET, Director, Community Fund of St. Louis.

Judge Priest and the Bible.

I WOULD like to have you ask Judge Priest where in the Bible he found that "money is the root of all evil." The Bible does say that money is the root of all evil, which is altogether different.

I would like to ask him also if there is a single law in commercial practice that is not prohibitive. It has been said that some persons "will steal the liver of heaven to serve the devil in." Jesus did say to his disciples that it was impossible but what offenses would be committed, but was unto him through whom they come. Woe unto you lawyers, for ye have taken away the key of knowledge. Ye entered not in yourselves and them that were entering ye hindered. AMOS STEVENS.

A Ku Klux Defender.

YOUR editorial of June 1, in which you openly criticize the Ku Klux Klan, is really intolerable. You uphold Al Smith for his signature to the new White House and you accuse the K. K. K. of committing murder in Louisiana. I personally know the klanmen do not commit murder, and uphold the law a great deal more than you St. Louis people do. You arrest a gangster, turn him loose for fear of consequences later, but the klan is a fearless organization, and anything you can print in your "corporation owned" paper will do the klan no harm.

Mr. Smith has not sunk so deep as the Governor of Louisiana, who will be looking through the bars before he can get through with what he has caused to be done in that State.

I would suggest to you, dear sir, that you do not get so hard regarding the "law violations" of the klan, as your ignorance is refreshing, and so many people will laugh at you—your poor, ignorant wampus.

Now, lay off of the K. K. K. and attend to your own gang nearer home, please. O. JONES.

A Lucky Woman With Children.

In response to the "Rent Hog Victim," I want the world to know there is a crown for one landlady, who never had any children of her own, yet rented a nice cozy flat in a good neighborhood for $12 a month. Isn't it reasonable for a man earning $30 a week to pay $12 rent? (I received these rooms through a total stranger. Not one time did I go on the "hunt" for it was useless. Think of my position when I told the landlady of my two children. She hesitated, and said, "Surely you will not have any worse luck by renting to me with my two children." "You may have them, my dear," was her answer. Just think of my smile. Woe be to the rent hog. "For all that glitters is not gold."

"Batter little children to come unto Me, for such is the kingdom of heaven."
A LUCKY RENTER.

INSULTING THE WORLD.

When Congress, under the lash of the Antislavery League, passed the Volstead act over President Wilson's veto it did not know it had enacted a world law. The Antislavery League probably did not know it, either. Both Congress and the league know it now. As the act is construed by the Supreme Court, the nations of the world are forbidden to carry liquor stores in their ships within our three-mile limit. This ruling goes into effect June 10, on which date the complications which prohibition has already heaped upon us enter a new and more acute phase.

Protests have been made against the ruling by a number of nations, in dignified language and in good spirit. We have been informed that other nations can comply with this law only at the cost of violating their own law, as well as their marine customs. We have been warned that such insistence on our part will seriously disturb the comity of international relations. And now French sailors have threatened to strike if they are denied the legal rations of wine allowed them while in our waters. They contend that they are on French soil as long as they are on a French ship, even in American ports, and their contention cannot be refuted. What are we going to do?

The Supreme Court's ruling is a literal construction of the Volstead act. But the particular circumstances demanded a reasonable construction. Since the court did not hesitate to apply the rule of reason in certain trust litigation, even at the risk of being charged with usurping a legislative function, it seems as if it might have exercised that discretion in this instance.

The ruling squares with the language of the act, but the fact remains that it is impolitic, discourteous and unjust. Nobody will honestly argue that prohibition in the United States will be in any degree endangered or compromised by extending to foreign ships the privilege of observing their own laws in the matter of carrying liquor stores within our three-mile limit and serving their sailors the temperate portions of wines sanctioned and commanded by their own customs. That being so, are we not in the untenable position of arrogantly imposing an irksome, distasteful regulation upon foreigners which they cannot lawfully or in self-respect submit to?

At a time when international friendship is valuable beyond price we are arrogantly thrusting aside the elements of good manners, are promoting international estrangement and inviting, yes, inciting, the world's contempt. And while strutting like a moral bully we are guilty of the rank hypocrisy, because while banishing the sailor's harmless glass of wine from our territorial waters, we permit the ships of the world to carry unlimited, unrestricted cargoes of liquor through the Panama Canal.

Fanaticism has already led us a long and tortuous journey and is recklessly charging into new areas of trouble.

Gov. Smith has signed a repeal bill on which the sentiment of the country is divided, and now there is no more free speech for Republican politicians.

GOOD TASTE AND THE MOVIES.

The parties of special interest in the nation-wide "movie" survey described in Tuesday's Post-Dispatch are the industry itself and those who are demanding censorship. The conclusion to be drawn from the commendable labor of Clarence A. Perry, chairman of the National Committee for Better Films, and of the Russell Sage Foundation is that the public itself is an effective censor and chooses, by long odds, the best pictures.

The survey acquires added value from the fact that it reflects the opinions of persons of the high school age, who are most addicted to the "movie" habit and who are most susceptible to the influence of what is put before their eyes. That habitual audiences become the best judges of what they see, as against others of equal education and intelligence, is inevitable. The taste is soon cloyed by the cheap and artificial; the mind wearied of sham and humbug. As only literature and art survive which "wear" best upon the taste and satisfy the best standards of art and truth, so the films exploiting a maximum of these qualities best command the power to interest our base adolescents. It remains for scenario writers and editors, producers and exhibitors to interpret the wants of the public. There is less reason now than ever for the obsession that the public is a boob and that the taste which it is most profitable to indulge is the lowest.

WHERE PRINCIPLES ABDICATE.

It is dangerous to start organizations by the rule of the jungle, for the rule of the jungle is unstable and, if used by an organization against its enemies, will soon be used by the members or factions of that organization against one another. This is exactly what is happening now among the Fascists of Italy. Mussolini finds himself holding down a volcano, which he can restrain only by applying dictatorial power.

The Fascists have exterminated the Socialist cause in Italy by violence and have seized the Government. They have restored order and revived business. And, as one of our own citizens admirably relates, they have abolished one of the signs of hard times—begging on the streets—by violently kicking all beggars at sight. But what does Mussolini now find on his hands?

He finds the Fascists running riot, disregarding law or discipline in the organization and dividing into bitter syndicalist and antisyndicalist groups. He finds his Generals pompously talking of peace by bloodshed, of replacing the Government army with the Fascist army and of an Italian empire to repeat the feats of ancient Rome. Employers are charging that "Fascists do not respect liberty or organizations."

Our own Fascists, the Ku Klux, are finding similar difficulties. Leaders of the organization are fighting among themselves over funds and making damning charges against one another. Originally avowing discrimination against Catholics, Jews and negroes, we now observe one of their preacher spokesmen braying against the entire Irish nationality and voicing the grotesque ambition of abolishing every Greek restaurant from coast to coast.

States that endure must take a stand in behalf of universal principles of justice, liberty and tolerance. States or organizations that are founded on violence, intolerance and race, religious or class hatred can stir up a lot of trouble, but they cannot endure. They are soon found running riot and directing the darts poisoned for an outside enemy against one another.

And if Banker Stillman had been operating 140 years ago Brother Burke would probably have said that the age of chivalry is gone blooie.

NEWSPAPER INDIVIDUALISM.

Among New York newspapers, the Globe, the city's oldest daily, was a splendid example of what may be called newspaper individualism. It had a history and a character of its own, and its elimination by purchase and absorption in Mr. Munsey's New York Sun is regretted even by its competitors in the metropolis.

The Globe had a circulation of 166,237, in a trading zone whose population, in and around New York, aggregated 9,500,000. Founded in 1793, by Noah Webster, as the Minerva, it flourished later as the Globe and Commercial Advertiser. Liberal in views, well edited and well printed, it was a stiff competitor of the other New York evening newspapers and a favorite with visitors, who could always find in it something distinctive and interesting.

There is a regrettable tendency towards centralization and standardization in the newspaper world, of which the Globe is a victim. Competition grows with capital and population, and the strongest not only survives but absorbs the weak. The strongest, however, may not always be the best, and if the best goes under, the reading public must suffer. A change of ownership may mean a decided lowering in ethical and other standards.

The public can protect itself and prevent the extinction of good newspapers, devoted to the public interest and worthy of support, by using sound judgment in choosing the daily newspaper. The demise of a newspaper of high character, with a record for public service and an individuality of its own, is a loss that should be prevented wherever it is possible.

THE MULLAN-GAGE LAW.

(With apologies.)
"WHAT are the glaring headlines for?" said Volstead Act, dismayed.

"They turned me out! they turned me out!" the Mullan-Gage Law said.

"What makes you green around the gills?" said Volstead Act, afraid.

"I'm dreading what may come to you," the Mullan-Gage Law said.

"For they're done with state enforcement, they have put it on the shelf."

The boys all thought the other way when the Antis had no pelf.

And Alfred said to Warren, "Enforce this thing yourself."

For there'll be no Mullan-Gage Law in the morning."

"What makes the House men breathe so hard?" said Senator McSpade.

"It's very crude, in fact, it's rude," the anxious "What makes the Senator go out?" said Gallery-on-Parade.

"He doesn't know which way to vote," the party leader said.

"For they're done with state enforcement, and it may now appear."

That if the folks could get it, they would clamor for their beer;

If the vote is cast in private I will vote right, never fear.

For there'll be no state enforcement in the morning."

"Your work was right-hand bower to mine," thus Volstead did upbraid.

"I've dealt anew, I've up to you," the Mullan-Gage Law said.

"I've had your help a score of times," said Volstead, to dissuade.

"You'd better learn to work alone," the Mullan-Gage Law said.

"They're dismissing state enforcement; you have set too fast a pace;

If you had stopped at Reason's beck, you could have saved my face."

You'd have no drinks of any kind, and now I'm in disgrace.

For there'll be no Mullan-Gage Law in the morning."

"What's that so black agin the sun?" said Warren on parade.

"A batch of laws that Congress passed," the V. P. Coolidge said.

"What's that that whippers underfoot?" said Warren to his aid.

"The public dear, who pay the bills," the V. P. Coolidge said.

"For they're tired of legislation of the 'butt-in' kind, they say;

They think that they can rule themselves, and for a chance they pray;

I think we'd be to normalcy if they could have their way."

JOHN D. HEADE.

Be'er Villard says it would never do to have Mr. Ford in the White House because of his terrible fits of temper in which everybody around him gets fired and there is a new deal all around.

We wish Mr. Harding would have one like that.

Upton Sinclair has written a lay about hell in which Big Bill Haywood is one of the characters. We have wondered where Bill got to after he left Russia.

The United States Supreme Court Judges must be feeling the heat much worse than we are feeling it here.

Harding wishes we had fraternity among nations. Well, we might have if we didn't have a Lodge.

SCIENCE AND RELIGION.

President White once of Cornell wrote a "History of the Conflict of Religion With Science in Christendom." When it was discovered that the earth traveled around the sun people said religion was ruined if that was believed; they attempted suppression; those people were not religious though they thought themselves so; it is not religious to refuse new knowledge adjusting your thinking to the newly discovered fact, though that is about all the religion many religious people know. The Nazarene was an awful dynamite; he is yet (Look at the legalized booze industry; he will get the illegal booze in the clean-up.) He died because people were unwilling (and thought everybody was unable) to adjust religion to the new facts he presented, e. g.: "The Sabbath was made for man," "I and my Father are one," "Before Abraham was I am." In Luke 15 is a parable, a story of two sons, which meant the Gentile world was more acceptable to the God of the Jews than the Jews themselves. It was those who thought themselves religious who put him to death. My limits prevent me from multiplying illustrations, of which there are libraries full and down to the minute. President White's (and Prof. Draper's) quarrel is not with the religious but with this sort.

The business of the religious thinker is not to deny that he cannot disprove, but to call the attention of the scientist, if he is one, to his own proposition, the religious one, and demand for it the consideration its worth in personal and social values entitles it to; it is the major miracle and the continuing miracle of Christendom. Something that lay dead in me woke up and when awake the life that men are content to live looked cheap and poor and a cross looked easy; love and joy as peace and alms were not approved merely but possessed. Valentine Burke here in St. Louis, thief, debauchee, chronic jailbird, awakened in middle-life, spent his last years as carrier of the money from the Sheriff's office to the bank and died repossessor and not mere approver of joy and peace and alms. Three preachers of the gospel, who went to sleep as go-called "bums," woke up in a St. Louis mission and are awake today. This is the business of religion; not to deny the scientist or the biologist, but to ask the scientist, if he is a scientist, and not a sciolist, what this fact means. I have not found religionists more gushy of certain facts remote from their individual experience than the scientist. His dogmas are not all religionists. It is high time for many people to wake out of sleep.

Sir: When a veteran proofreader told me that early in his career he had settled the difficulty he experienced with the "a" and "o" in spelling "Parash" by ascertaining it with the Ancient Order of Hibernians or A. O. H., I thought it very clever. But I believe the palm for adroitness goes to that much-maligned though often-sinning class known as sign painters. I have never heard anything but fault found with the work of sign painters, so I am glad to say a word in praise of the man who solved the problem of that troublesome "a" and "o" by painting it in his sign this way:

HARDING AND OBREGON.

From the Louisville Courier-Journal.

ARBITRATION of differences between the United States and Mexico should have been resolved upon at least two years ago. All arguments in favor of arbitration settlement that were weighty now were weighty then. But for Secretary Hughes' perseverance these reasons would have long ago been accepted as conclusive. Such perseverance has been heavy, and heavy only in Mexico and this country, but in other Latin American nations. Canada also has felt the whole hemisphere has been directly and indirectly affected by the fatuous policy of stubbornness adopted by the American Department of State since 1921. Mr. Payne and Mr. Warren have met the Mexican commissioners half way. President Obregon has manifested a spirit of amableness. President Harding seems to have modified if not reversed, the unyielding policy of his Secretary of State. Discussion has led to compromise, compromise to agreement. Commerce in the means whereby settlement is to be made is the forerunner of the problem's solution. Reasonable citizens of both nations hope that a renewal of relations, diplomatic and commercial, will be prompt and enduring.

A COLLEGE CENTENARY.

THE celebration of the centennial of Trinity College, Hartford, began yesterday in this city with appropriate services at Trinity Church. This college is ordinarily thought of as a small institution. It was, indeed, founded a hundred years ago by Bishop Brownell of the Connecticut diocese, and has been the nurturing mother of many Bishops and clergymen. But its doors have always been open to all, and in its original charter was the far-sighted provision that the authorities should "not make the religious tests of any person a condition of admission to any privilege in said college." Furthermore, as a serious protest against the religious intolerance of the day, the charter further provided that "no professor or professor or any officer shall be made eligible for or by reason of any religious test in said college." This college has been a pioneer in the educational world. It has preferred to remain a small college. It has clung to the old-fashioned collegiate education obtained by direct contact between undergraduates and full professors. The personal element has always been emphasized and is today. Trinity never has had an ambition or desire to become a university. It offers wide studies, but has no "schools."

PLANNING FOR NICARAGUA CANAL.

THE Panama Canal is constantly breaking up traffic records. The last annual report showed a considerable increase over the figures for the preceding year, and on Saturday of last week records for a single day were broken. The receipts in tolls totaled $136,698 from 25 ships. It will not be long before the canal will be operated night and day to accommodate the growing volume of traffic. Already vessels sometimes wait their turn at the locks for several hours and captains race their ships to obtain a favorable place in the early morning line. Fortunately the canal was built with an eye to the future. The system of double locks and the very largely the number of vessels the canal can accommodate. At the same time the construction of the Nicaragua Canal cannot be too long delayed. It might be well to consider taking profits of the Panama Canal and accumulating them in a fund destined to pay for the construction of a canal over the Nicaragua route. Profits are rapidly increasing and will amount to a considerable sum by the time work on the canal is under way.

FOURTH DIMENSION.
Through some re-entrant angle
Where spirit merges place,
By intercosmic tangle
Of time that is but space.

She came; and Oh, I knew her
As if we two were wed!
But though my soul went to her,
My body was as dead.

Though I at last beheld her,
No clearer did she seem
Than when I oft had spelled her
In all my years of dream.

I could not call her to me,
I could not name her name;
But as the fire went through me,
I knew she felt the flame.

She looked at me, and sent me
Her knowledge of our fate;
And that must all content me—
She came to me too late.

So I shall see her never
The dream will pass away;
For she was young as ever,
And I am old and gray!
GELETT BURGESS.

"If you had your choice," Mr. Louis Weitzenkorn interrupts long enough to ask, "which would you rather take with you to that desert island—a book or a woman?" There are too many publishers who advertise in the world for us to hazard a candid reply.

Of course, one might write a book, and read it to her.

The chances for advertisement offer, also. A publisher might answer the question:
"A woman is only a woman, but 'The Conning' by Edna Ferber (Doubleday, Page & Co.), is a book.

Perfect candor compels the admission that one book most of usregarious persons would yearn for on a desert island would be something like "A Hundred Ways of Making Dearly Poisons."

Gov. Smith's theatrical question to Edward P. Doyle, "Did a soap-box orator ever impress you?" was answered by, "No, I can't say one ever did." But if the Governor had asked also, "Did any orator ever impress you?" would Mr. Doyle have answered "No?" We should have, for one.

The Bus-Talkers.

"An' then I served a fruit salad and, honest, even if I did make it, it was simply elegant. They all raved about it and wanted my recipe. Between you and I, it was just a regular fruit salad—orange, grapefruit and pineapple. ONLY I added some cubes of banana as I sometimes do because I sorta think it relieves the sourness an' doesn't seem so tart."

"Tesh, but thass jus' what I like in a fruit salad, the tartness and sourness."

"Tesh, but most everybody there said they liked it because it wasn't so sorta sour and tart as they usually get."

"Well, I'm fanney, perhaps, but I think a fruit salad WANTS to be kinda tart and sour-like. Don't you?"

"Well, not exactly. I know some people like it that way, but I think just a little banana sorta softens the acidity taste that leaves your mouth all puckery and sourish."

"Tesh, I know, but—honest an' I always think a fruit salad is SO much more refreshing when it's sourish."

"Tesh, perhaps you're right; but the bananas did seem to improve it. At least, so everyone thought. Maybe the grapefruit was tarter than usual or something and it needed the banana."

"Tesh, that must have been it, because I always say a fruit salad to be REALLY good must be—yes, know—sorta tart and sour."

"Tesh, I know, but—honest an' twelf next, isn't it, dearie? Loved seeing you. Goo' by."

If some of the stories about the movie magnates are true, they might engage, say, Maurice Maeterlinck to write an arithmetic scenario for the schoolroom. "Two and two," the first reel might begin, "are four." "Look here," the magnate might say, "I heard different." F. P. A.

The Conning Tower

FOURTH DIMENSION.
Through some re-entrant angle
Where a spirit mopes place,
By intercometric tangle
Of time that is but space.

She came; and Oh, I knew her
As if we two were wed; us
But though my soul went to her,
My body was as dead.

Though I at last beheld her
No clearer did she seem
Than when I first had met her
In all my years of dream.

I could not call her to me,
I could not name her name;
But as the fire went through me,
I knew she felt the flame.

She looked at me, and sent me
Her knowledge of our fate;
And that must all content me—
She came to me too late.

I shall see her never
The dream will pass away;
For she was young as ever,
And I am old and gray!

GLETT BURGESS.

"If you had your choice," Mr. Louis Wetzelschorn interrupts long enough to ask, "which would you rather take with you to that desert island—a book or a woman?" There are too many publishers who advertise in the World for us to hazard a candid reply.

Of course, one might write a book, and read it to her.

The chances for advertisement offer also. A publisher might answer the question: "A woman is only a woman, but 'The Girls' by Edna Ferber (Doubleday, Page & Co.) is a book."

Perfect candor compels the admission that one book most of us greenhorn persons would yearn for on a desert island would be something like "A Hundred Ways of Making Daddy Poisons."

Gov. Smith's theatrical question to Edward P. Doyle, "Did a soap-box orator ever impress you?" was answered by Doyle, "I can't say one ever did. But if the Governor had asked me, 'Did any orator ever impress you?' I would have answered 'No.' We should have, for one."

At to "Ten Books I Enjoyed Most," J. W. F. lists as follows: "Aqueduct, Jamaica, Latonia."

JOURNALISM.
He filled her heart with sorrow:
With love it bristled and burst;
"Some snappy stuff tomorrow,"
Said William Randolph Hearst.

The 1923 prize for the most atrocious rhyme goes to C. C. Hall, who is alleged to be the author of the poem to C. B. Manville, beginning: Glad welcome to you, dear Mr. C. B. Manville;

Now true hearts with thanks thrill.

The Star-Talkers.
"As I served fruit salad and, honestly, even if I did make it, it was simply elegant. They all loved it and I wanted my recipe. Between you and I, it was just a regular fruit salad—apples, grapes, and pineapple. ONLY I added some cubes of banana as I sometimes do because I sort of like it. It relieves the sourness an' doesn't seem so tart."

"Yeah, but that's just what I like in a fruit salad, the tartness and sourness."

"Yeah, but most everybody there said they liked it because it wasn't so sour and tart as they usually are."

"Well, I'm funny, perhaps, but I think a fruit salad WANTS to be kinda tart and sour-like. Don't you?"

"Well, not exactly. I know some people like it that way, but I think just a little banana sorta softens the acidity taste that leaves your mouth all puckery and sourish."

"Yeah, I know, but—hundert an' I always think a fruit salad is SO much more refreshing when it's sourish."

"Yeah, perhaps you're right; but the bananas did seem to improve it. At least, so everyone thought. Maybe the 'spicy' was tarter than the usual or something and it needed the banana."

2 MORNING WEDDINGS ARE SOLEMNIZED

Miss Idelia Bush and Miss Mildred Hadley Become Brides.

Two morning weddings today afforded interesting diversion for society. At 10 o'clock Miss Idelia Frances Bush, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin F. Bush of 5334 Waterman avenue, became the bride of George W. Holmes, son of Mrs. Margaret C. Holmes of 6120 Waterman avenue. The ceremony was performed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bush by the Rev. Dr. John W. MacIvor and was followed by a breakfast. Guests included only members of the immediate families. The couple were unattended and the bride wore a three-piece traveling costume with a corsage of flowers. They will depart today on their honeymoon trip and upon their return will be at home at 750 Heman avenue, University City.

At 11 o'clock Miss Mildred Hadley, daughter of Leo G. Hadley of 3247 Longfellow boulevard, was married to Dr. Clarence Kelly Canelo, son of Mrs. A. B. Canelo of San Jose, Cal. The service was read by the Rev. Father P. D. O'Connor in a bower of lilacs at the altar of the Immaculate Conception Church, and a reception followed at the Hadley home.

Miss Alice Hadley, debutante sister of the bride, was maid of honor and Harry Canelo of San Jose, brother of the bridegroom, best man. Patricia Kelsey, small daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Kelsey, was flower girl.

Fred W. Forsberg, Dr. Daniel Kauffman and Leo G. Hadley Jr. were ushers.

The bride's gown was white satin crepe with its skirt draperies caught by a pearl ornament and clusters of orange blossoms. A satin court train, lined with silver cloth and adorned with orange blossoms depended from her shoulders, and over this fell the tulle bridal veil fastened to her coiffure with a coronet of rose point lace. She wore a diamond and platinum bracelet with sapphires, the gift of her father, and carried orchids and lilies of the valley.

HER WEDDING DAY ADVANCED

John Drew, Miss Barrymore and Other Stars Get Applause at Every Turn.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, June 6.—It will be recalled that the Equity Players produced "The Rivals" when the all-star cast was beginning to acquire a passing familiarity with the lines and a presentation was quickly developed into good dramatics which was received with a salvo of critical rebukes. Monday night at the Lyceum Theater the Players' Club, with an even more distinguished cast, gave another of Sheridan's plays for its second annual revival and kept a distinguished audience on tip-toe as the characters became shooting stars, going up into the heavens with their lines.

It really made no difference to the audience. Few things fire the imagination of New Yorkers so much as either very old or very new things. Given a theater filled with those who are passionately fond of theater and the sight of John Drew's macaroni coat adorned at the throat and cuffs with the Mehlman lace of Sir Peter Teasle, and you have a minute burst of applause. Mr. Drew's entrance may have shaded that of his niece, Ethel Barrymore, as Lady Teasle, but there was no perceptible diminution in the applause.

Even the grinning Grant Mitchell, obviously embarrassed, found the drawing room of Sir Peter's house a focus of handclapping when he, without a line in the play, shifted two chairs and a vase. Perhaps the summit of enthusiasm was reached at the close of the first act, when Mr. Drew and Miss Barrymore, as Sir Peter and Lady Teasle, were brought back the memories of Drury Lane days. Yet so distinguished a company as the Players' Club might be expected to bring to their production a finish and sparkle not found in lesser ones of the stage. The play distinctly was not the thing Monday night. It was inferior stuff done ineffectively.

Quips Not Well Done.
One realizes that William Inge's love to write of the acting of an old English comedy was not worth discussing.

Monday night Sheridan seemed terribly shorn and not the perversely funny dramatist that immortal actors should have. The quips were not well done and the coarseness of "The School for Scandal," following as it did the grace of "The Rivals," proves that old English comedy is not as good as it was once.

Henry E. Dixey as the post-tasting Sir Benjamin Backbit and Tom Wais as Sir Oliver Surface, played with a grace and flavor exceeding that of the other older stars. Charles Richman as the wastrel, Surface, was far the best of the younger members. The women were uniformly good, with the crown, of course, going to Miss Barrymore. Never has she looked more lovely than in powdered wig and Georgian flounces.

And yet, after all is done and the house lights are on, one feels no terrible nostalgia for the halcyon days of Drury Lane. Better on-act by Eugene O'Neill than the old powdered popinjays who ever took a hint at what or plucked. Theatrical tradition seems flourish in indirect proportion to the number of times it is watered.

A number of parties are being planned in honor of Mrs. Le Roy Lynch of Denver, Colo., who will arrive in St. Louis Thursday, June 13, to visit Mrs. Thomas Harper Cobb of 6224 Waterman avenue, and Miss Mamie Haynes who is the guest of her sister, Mrs. Frederick W. Langenberg. On Friday, June 15, Mrs. Cobb will have a tea for her friends at the home of Mrs. Langenberg. The following evening Mrs. Langenberg will entertain 30 guests at the Sunset Hill Country Club in their honor.

Mrs. Thomas Scott Kirkpatrick will be hostess at a bridge luncheon at Sunset June 19, followed the next day by a similar affair at Midland Valley Country Club by Mrs. H. C. Kirkpatrick. On Friday, June 20, Mrs. George Bergfeld has invited a group of friends for a breakfast bridge party at 10:30 o'clock in honor of the visitors.

Miss Wilma Robinson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John O. Robinson of Webster Groves, who will become the bride, June 27, of Robert James Moffatt of Toronto, Canada, has chosen her bridal party. Miss John MacLaren of Toronto, sister of the bridegroom, will come to St. Louis to be matron of honor and Miss Eleanor Kelly of Cleveland maid of honor. The bridesmaids will be Miss Jane Tredway, Miss Jane Nutting and Miss Ruth Harris. Virginia Koken, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest F. Koken, will be flower girl and Billy Charlton Lyman, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Lyman, ring bearer.

Percy Moffatt of Toronto will be his brother's best man, and the groomsmen are to be Francis Murphy, Lawrence Miller, James Fort, Oliver Heller, Page Arden and Laurence Robinson, brother of the bride.

Miss Mona Hearne of Toronto arrived yesterday to be a guest at the wedding and attend the pre-wedding parties. Mrs. Koken will give a luncheon bridge at her home in Webster Groves for Miss Robinson, June 12, and the following day Miss Frances Martin of Webster will give a similar affair for her at the Belleview Country Club. On June 13 Miss Elizabeth Newsome of 6170 Pershing avenue will be hostess at an afternoon tea. Mrs. Herbert Strain of Cates avenue will give a bridge party next week at the same time and place. The proceeds of the affair will go to the Mary Easton Sibbey scholarship fund.

Dr. and Mrs. H. Wheeler Bond of 17 Vandeventer place will depart about July 1 for Harbor Point, Mich., where they will spend the summer. Their elder daughter, Miss Mary Scudder Bond, will visit Miss Ruth Bourneville in Chicago and Miss Isabelle B. Bond will attend a girls' camp at Vergennes, Vt. She will depart June 29. ## TWO MEN HELD AFTER KILLING OF PREACHER

Political Feud Said to Have Caused Fatal Shooting Near Richmond, Va.

By The Associated Press.
RICHMOND, Va., June 6.—Two prominent Cumberland County officials—R. O. and L. C. Garrett—face charges of first degree murder in connection with the slaying of the Rev. E. L. Pierce, who was shot to death yesterday in a pistol fight with the Garretts at his home at Cumberland Courthouse.

L. C. Garrett was at liberty today under bail of $5000, while his brother, suffering with a serious wound, was under guard at a hospital here.

The fight was said by State officials to have resulted from an old political feud between county factions. The Garretts, merchants of Cumberland Courthouse, and both holding county offices, were members of a faction which the clergyman is said to have actively opposed recently. The brothers also are said to have objected strenuously to remarks said to have been made by the Rev. Mr. Pierce from the pulpit, which they considered as "having reflected on the wife of L. C. Garrett."

According to testimony of witnesses at a Coroner's inquest the Garretts went to the home of the clergyman and called him outside where he engaged in a fight with L. C. Garrett. This fight ended, the minister went back into his home and emerged a moment later armed with a shotgun and a revolver. R. O. Garrett, witnesses said, wrested the shotgun from the clergyman, thrust it upon the ground. The shooting followed, it was testified, with the Garretts brothers and Pierce participating. The minister was shot through the heart and two bullets also pierced his body. Examination of his pistol disclosed one empty chamber.

The Coroner's jury returned a verdict to the effect that the clergyman met his death at the hands of R. O. Garrett and L. C. Garrett, "one or both."

Pierce was the pastor of four churches in Cumberland County. He was about 50 years old and is survived by his widow and six children. R. O. Garrett is 45 years old and in addition to being Clerk of the Cumberland County Court he is secretary of the Cumberland Tobacco Growers' Co-operative Association. L. C. Garrett is Commissioner of Chancery for the county.

Ozark County, located south of Springfield, had only one individual who filed an income tax return. Hickory County had six and Camden County 10. Both also are located in the Ozark region.

The number of Missouri returns (172,519) was 2.99 per cent of the national total. The net income reported in Missouri ($499,911,004), was 2.51 per cent of the total for the country, and the Missouri tax ($14,660,351), was 2.4 per cent of the total.

Of Missouri's population of 3,404,058 (census of 1920), returns were filed by 5.67 per cent. The average net income per return was $2,897.72 and the average amount of tax per return $84.98.

Missouri's per capita net income reported was $146.55 and the per capita income tax $4.31. The last figure compares with a per capita tax of $6.73 for the whole United States.

APPRENTICE SYSTEM URGED TO MEET BRICKLAYERS' SHORTAGE

Union Official Favors Plan Suggested at Conference to Discuss Training Schools in Industry.

By The Associated Press.
CLEVELAND, O., June 6.—Return to the old "apprentice" system in industry, which virtually passed out of existence in America 50 years ago, but which still exists to a wide extent in Europe, was predicted during a conference here yesterday, called primarily to discuss the shortage of bricklayers and to lay plans for training men. Architects, contractors, union representatives and educators attended the conference.

Announcement that the International Union of Bricklayers will back any apprentice school system which meets the approval of the Arbitration Committee of the local union and local contractors in any city was made by Thomas L. Preece, international vice president of the union.

Preece suggested that this training be aimed toward a permanent basis to take care of the economic needs of the industry over a long time and not simply to fill the present shortage. He predicted that within three years there would be more bricklayers than work.

This Simple Treatment Not Only Relieves Baby— It Prevents Further Agony

Millions of mothers every summer are worried almost frantic by the hot-weather suffering of their babies. Perhaps your baby is fretful—loses sleep—looks sick and undernourished.

use Kora Konia every time baby's diapers are changed

The terrible tortures which only a delicate-skinned baby can feel are responsible for most of the hot-weather trouble.

Sprinkle Kora Konia liberally over the baby's tender skin. Rub it gently until you feel the famous Kora Konia waterproof film form smoothly under your fingers. In this way only can you be sure that Baby is protected against the agonies of chafing, scalding, prickly heat and rashes.

Kora Konia has been the means of completely restoring health and happiness to babies who had become all but nervous little wrecks from the pain of their irritated skins. Chafing and scalding are impossible when the soft Kora Konia film is interposed between the diapers and skin. Body acids, rancid perspiration and other insanitary matters simply cannot penetrate this healing, waterproof protection. Baby immediately becomes more quiet and comfortable. He takes new interest in his food.

What a relief for the worried mother who was unable to tell from the appearance of the skin how serious the trouble was!

Mother, too, can now get her rest at night—and a little relaxation during the day—happy because her baby is no longer losing the strength needed to resist disease.

The seriousness of a baby's skin troubles cannot be overstated. The effects are far-reaching. Kora Konia is the first perfect protection against this danger. No matter how well your baby's skin looks you should get Kora Konia at once and—

Apply it faithfully—every time
baby's diapers are changed

To sprinkle the cooling antiseptic powder is the work of a few seconds, and it is as easily removed.

Kora Konia comes in the convenient form of a powder. But you should never confuse it with ordinary "baby powders." This is an entirely different substance. It brings relief when everything else fails.

Kora Konia is made by The Mennen Company, Newark, N. J., and costs but 35c. For your own peace of mind and for Baby's health, begin using it at once.

KANSAS COURT HOLDS FIXED PRICE CONTRACTS ARE ILLEGAL

Dealers Are Now Revising So-Called Agents' Agreements on Sounder Basis.

By the Associated Press.
TOPEKA, Kan., June 6.—The trade term "exclusive agent" has just about been crossed off the Kansas business lexicon through a recent decision of the Supreme Court. As a result so-called agents' contracts are undergoing a general revision to place them on a more sound basis, dealers assert. The court's decision was that all fixed price contracts between manufacturers, wholesalers, jobbers and general distributors on the one hand and retail agencies on the other, are illegal.

Charles G. Mills of Sedgewick County sued the General Ordnance Co. for breach of contract. He claimed he had a contract as exclusive agent in a given territory to sell the company's tractors at a specified price, and that the company had violated the contract by making deliveries within his territory at less than the fixed price. Both the lower court and the Supreme Court held that such contract was illegal and therefore the agent had no standing in court.

CITY LIKELY TO SEEK*U. R. CASE REHEARING

Caulfield Advises Action Based on Valuation Decision of Supreme Court.

The city of St. Louis likely will file a motion for a rehearing of the United Railways valuation case before the Missouri Public Service Commission, City Counselor Haid said today.

That is the advice of former City Counselor Caulfield, who was retained, after his retirement, as special counsel in the case. The chief basis of the appeal will be that whereas the United States Supreme Court added only 25 per cent to original cost in the Bell Telephone case as reflection of increased present prices, the commission added 50 per cent to original cost of physical property in the railways case. If 25 per cent only had been added, the valuation total of $51,761,384 would have been reduced approximately $1,740,000.

City officials will discuss the matter further at a conference today or tomorrow at which Haid further retention of Caulfield as special counsel will be considered. Caulfield received $2500 for his work of writing the brief and making arguments in the case.

The railways already has indicated its intention to file a motion for a rehearing. It complains that the valuation is too low.

BETTER HOMES WEEK

June 4 to June 10, 1923

The desire for a home is inherent in every normal person. The greatest pleasures in life are found within the walls of the model home. It is a haven of solace and comfort and is the foundation upon which the entire structure of our social life rests. The predominance of the home as the greatest factor in the affairs of the nation is universally recognized, and the week from JUNE 4 to 10th, 1923 has been designated throughout the country as BETTER HOMES WEEK for the purpose of further developing its influence. The movement is nation wide and in St. Louis is being assisted by a special Committee of the Women's Chamber of Commerce. Mrs. J. A. Goodwin is Chairman of the Committee.

The model home should be equipped with some or all of the following modern labor-saving and sanitary appliances, viz:

QUICK MEAL GAS RANGE, with Lorain Oven Heat Regulator
RUUD GAS WATER HEATER
GALLAHER GAS FURNACE
HORTON GAS IRONING MACHINE
QUICK MEAL GAS LAUNDRY STOVES
HUMPHREY GAS RADIANT FIRES
SCIENTIFIC GAS LAUNDRY DRYER
ALMETAL GAS FIRED WASHING MACHINE

THE LACLEDE GAS LIGHT COMPANY has offered, in connection with the Better Homes Campaign, special advantages and opportunities for home makers to acquire on very easy monthly payments—which will be added to the gas bill—any or all of the appliances referred to above and which can be seen in operation at the Main and Branch Offices of the Company—

"NANOOK" PRAISED BY LECTURER ON ALASKA

Remarkable Chronicle of Eskimo's Life, Says Dr. F. H.
Spence of Point Barrow.

"Nanook of the North" is the most remarkable chronicle of the habits and lives of the Eskimos that has ever been made, in the opinion of Dr. Frank H. Spence, minister and physician, who, with his wife, is in St. Louis after nearly nine years in Alaska. Dr. and Mrs. Spence saw
"Nanook" last night at the Pershing Theater, where the picture is being shown the second week. A percentage of each evening's proceeds goes to the Post-Dispatch Free Ice for Babies' Milk Fund.

"Of course," said Dr. Spence, "the Eskimos among whom Mrs. Spence and I have been working for the past five years at Point Barrow, 1300 miles north of the North Pole and 3500 miles north of San Francisco, are more civilized than the tribes of Nanook which Robert J. Flaherty photographed in the Hudson Bay regions. They are accustomed to the use of firearms and other labor-saving advantages from contact with the white man. "Nanook" portrays the primitive habits of the tribes.
"We enjoyed 'Nanook' very much
—we never saw as good photography of the ice regions and particularly the dogs, as contained in the picture.
It is well worth seeing by young and old, for it is a faithful portrayal of hunting, fishing and trapping, the only activities of the Eskimos and the sole means of existence in the far North."

Dr. and Mrs. Spence do not regret their experiences in the desolate Northland. Their lecture tour is being sponsored by the Presbyterian Board of Home Missions, which supports a hospital at Point Barrow, the only medical aid within a radius of 600 miles.

NEAR EAST CONFERENCE AGAIN VIRTUALLY AT STANDSTILL

Each Delegation Waiting for Instructions From Home Government on Unsettled Problems.

By the Associated Press.
LAUSANNE, June 6.—The Near East peace conference is again in troubled waters, with each side waiting for the other to give way on unsettled problems, and no immediate solution of the crisis is in sight. The conference virtually is at a standstill, each delegation waiting for instructions from its home Government which might enable the plenipotentiaries to break the deadlock.
Ismet Pasha, summoned a Turkish correspondent last night and informed him that the Turkish delegation had said its last word on concessions and that the Ottoman debt and peace depended on the reply of the allies. He complained that he could get no definite answer from the allies as to when Constantinople would be evacuated although he had been given to understand that it would be as soon as Angora ratified the Lausanne treaty.

Ismet said he promised the Angora Government not to sign a treaty which would annihilate Turkish resources, and unless the allies made some arrangement whereby Turkey would not be obliged to pay the interest on the debt in settling, the treaty would be crippled.
As for foreign concessions, Ismet was convinced that the negotiations on these would be successfully terminated by Angora, but in any case he was not empowered to include them in the Lausanne treaty as the allies wished.

a new summer comfort

FROM the woods of Maine to the beaches of California—everywhere you see Keds today! Wherever comfortable, out-of-door dress is worn, Keds have become the accepted summer footwear.

Light, cool, easy-fitting, Keds let the feet, cramped by months of stiff, hard shoes, return to their natural form and breathe. This freedom is especially fine for the growing muscles of children. Famous foot specialists say that Keds are scientifically correct for all normal feet.

Why you should insist on Keds'

Keds are the standard by which all canvas rubber-soled shoes are judged. Their quality is backed by the skill and experience of the largest rubber company in the world.

Keds are made in many styles—high shoes and low, pumps, oxfords and sandals—styles for men and women, girls and boys.

Keds, of course, vary in price according to type. But no matter what kind of Keds you buy, every pair gives you the highest possible value at the price.

Remember—while there are other shoes that may at first glance look like Keds—no other shoe can give you real Keds value. Keds are made only by the United States Rubber Company. If the name Keds isn't on the shoes, they aren't real Keds.

An Engineering Triumph

To appreciate the exceptional engineering skill that designed The Dorris, one has only to sit at the wheel for a few miles on any kind of road.

In starting, there is little of the customary choker manipulation, even in cold weather. And once under way, the consciousness of unlimited power and speed under absolute control, of dependability, of certainty that the rear wheels are always holding the road, all create a sensation of satisfaction impossible to describe.

The very "feel" of The Dorris suggests perfection.

THERE are more Dorris Trucks than any other make except Fords, operating in St. Louis.

They're economical, dependable, long lived. 1 Ton; 2½ Ton; 3½ Ton.

Announcement of the intention to lower the dividend on Pure Oil from a $2 to $1.50 basis was followed by a break of more than three points in the stock to a new low for the year.

The action furnished the provocation for further attacks upon the oils like General Asphalt, Mexican Seaboard and Texas Pacific Coal and Oil. The last of these points was the lowest yet touched since it was admitted to the trading list three years ago.

It was a matter of note that the weakness in these particular oils did not extend to the entire group, but on the contrary, that stocks like McLaugh, Cosden and Producers Refiners were distinctly better.

New York Central was the leader of the rails. The spectacle of the stock above par again failed, however, to arouse much interest in other rail stocks.

Special weakness continued in International Harvester, but without influencing the rest of the market.

The more active stocks like Baldwin Locomotive and Studabaker continued to suffer. Studabaker's common

KANSAS CITY CHOSEN FOR NEXT SHRINE CONVENTION

Conrad Dykeman of Brooklyn Is Elected to Rank of Imperial Potentate of Order.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, June 6.—Conrad V. Dykeman of Brooklyn, N. Y., was elevated to the position of imperial potentate today by the Ancient Arabic Order, Nobles of the Mystic Shrine.

Dykeman during the past year has been deputy imperial potentate, and in accordance with the usual custom his elevation to the highest office in the order was followed by a promotion by one grade of all the other national officers.

Clifford Ireland of Peoria, Ill., a former member of Congress, was given a place in the direct line of succession when he was elected imperial outer guard. The post is at the bottom of the line and was made vacant by the elevation of all the higher officials. It was the only place to be filled from outside the present corps of national Shrine officials.

All the other cities which had extended invitations for the convention withdrew before the vote was taken and Kansas City was selected unanimously. June 3, 4 and 5 were chosen as the convention dates.

Today the President and Mrs. Harding again opened wide the doors of the White House to the visiting Shriners, thousands of whom were shown through the parlors of the mansion while at the executive offices delegations from a dozen temples were received by the chief executive.

BARBOT ENROUTE TO CAPITAL IN HIS "FLYING FLIVVER"

Reumes Touring at Berlin, N. J., After Escort Plane Is Damaged in Landing.

By the Associated Press.
BERLIN, N. J., June 6.—Georges Barbot, in his "flying flivver" landed at the Curtiss Flying Field at Pine Valley at 12:40 p. m. and resumed his journey to Washington at 1:20 p. m., after a successful flight from Garden City.

The French flier was accompanied from Garden City by Lieut. Valentine in an army plane. The army flier in trying to make a landing came down about a mile from Pine Valley and damaged his airplane to such an extent that he could not continue the journey. Lieut. Valentine was not injured.

COURT CAUTIONS PROSECUTOR AFTER STATE'S CASE FAILS

Following dismissal of a charge of common assault against Roy Johnson, a negro, because of the failure of the State's witness to identify him, Judge Miller in the Court of Criminal Correction today cautioned Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Ben Philipson against issuing warrants in cases in which the evidence is not sufficient to convict.

Johnson was arrested after a negro woman complained that she had been beaten by him and two other negro women. In her testimony in court today she said she was not sure that Johnson had anything to do with the assault.

RIFLE BALL IN HEAD 18 YEARS

By the Associated Press.
SANTA BARBARA, Cal., June 6.—Leslie McCaleb, 28 years old, is in a local hospital for an operation to remove a rifle ball said to have been carried in his head for 18 years.

When McCaleb was 10 years old he was riding on a wagon with his father. Suddenly he fell to the ground, suffering a severe cut on his forehead. He was given medical treatment and his injury pronounced slight. The boy, however, insisted that he had been shot, despite the fact that the attending surgeon found no trace of such a wound. Since that time he has suffered fainting spells. Yesterday he went to a hospital for an X-ray examination, which showed a small calibre bullet buried in his skull.

RESTRADING ORDER DISSOLVED

An order restraining the arrest of James A. Worthington, special agent of the New York Life Insurance Co., on a charge of abducting three of his children, was dissolved in Circuit Court at Clayton today. A hearing on an application for an injunction restraining interference with Worthington's guardianship of his children was set for the fall term of court.

Complaint was made to the police, May 28, by Worthington's daughter, Miss Grace Worthington, a teacher at Forest Park College, that her sisters, Ruth, 7, and Mary and Alice, 5-year-old twins, were taken away in an automobile as they were returning to the college, where they lived, from Dewey School, Central and Clayton avenues. Miss Worthington told the police that she had been appointed guardian of the children. Her father is contesting the guardianship.

RUG MAKING IN CHINA DECLINES

Power Than 300 of 500 Factories Built in War in Operation.
TIENTSIN, May 12.—The unprecedented boom in the rug-making industry in China, which followed interruption of the Turkish and Persian trade during the war, has suffered a severe check.
Out of 500 factories which were built in Tientsin during the first years of the war, developing a daily output of more than 10,000 square inches, fewer than 300 have survived a renewal of competition. During the heyday of the industry prices soared from $1.50 and $1.80 per square foot to $3 and $4. About one-fourth of the output was consumed domestically and of the rest America took the bulk.

The slump is attributed largely to inferiority of the product under the enormously increased demand, due to inferior wool, unskillful dyeing and inexperienced workmanship.

RIVER FISH BROWSE UPON TRUCK GARDENER'S LETTUCE

Carp Wander Into Vegetable Fields When River Overflows.

WAHLKE, Wash.—Truck gardeners here, driven from their fields by the annual spring overflow of the Columbia River, turned to see huge carp eating their lettuce and cabbage. The back water from the river runs into the irrigated districts through the ditches and carp, salmon and other kinds of fish follow. In the clear water, the carp nosed about and browsed on grass, vegetables and tree roots like cattle. The Columbia, although flowing for hundreds of miles through the semi-arid region of Washington, like the Nile, receives at its headwaters immense freshets from the Canadian mountains, 1500 miles from here. These flood waters are just now reaching the lower river.

ACRES OF SALMON BEING CURED

Squaws at Work in Northwest Preparing Season's Harvest.
PROSSER, Wash.—Acres of chinook salmon are drying in the sun here and numerous squaws are busily engaged preparing fish for curing. The salmon harvest at the falls has attracted representatives of 11 Northwest tribes. The fish are speared with long lances from a floating log float. Many of the chinooks weigh from 30 to 40 pounds and furnish the red men and Indians with nourishing food. The primitive methods employed both in taking and curing the salmon attracts hundreds of auto tourists daily. For three centuries, according to Northwest legends, Indians have gathered here each spring for the chinook salmon catch. The fish are bound upstream for spawning, but cannot leap the falls and die unless the Indians caught them before serious mishaps from constant jumping ensue.

Lighting Equipment

(This Hall Mark Identifies Every GUTH Product)

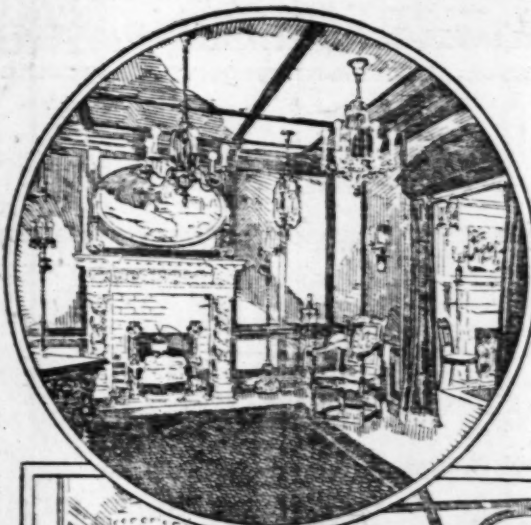

In the old days of the Guild workers a Master's signature was the symbol of a price's craftsmanship. And so today the Guth hall mark identifying each product of the Edwin F. Guth Company, stands for the highest integrity of quality and workmanship. It is the symbol of the world's largest organization devoted exclusively to the production of Lighting Equipment.

The making of elegant brass and bronze lighting fixtures of all kinds has been the chief business of the St. Louis Brass Mfg. Co. from its organization in 1902 by Mr. Guth and associates.

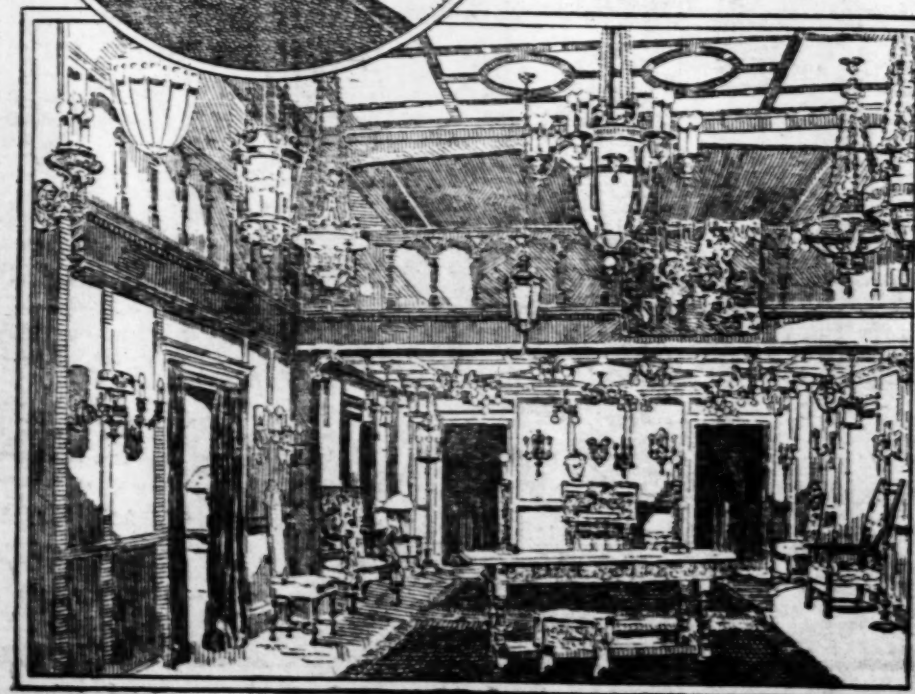

The Brascolite Company, a division of the St. Louis Brass Mfg. Co., was incorporated for the purpose of marketing the Brascolite—a new principle in lighting introduced in 1913.

These two interrelated companies have now been unified in one great institution—the largest of its kind in the world. Over 150,000 square feet of floor space and 400 employees devoted to the designing and manufacturing of brass and bronze lighting fixtures—of Guth Quality—of every type and style for every lighting need.

The World's Largest Organization of Lighting Fixture Manufacturers Invites You to Visit Its Magnificent Retail Display and Sales Rooms—Washington at Jefferson

A visit to the Edwin F. Guth Retail Display Rooms, Washington at Jefferson Avenue, affords an unusual opportunity to study lighting effects in both modern and period designs. The main room, illustrated below, is surrounded by a number of smaller rooms, in each of which a different period or grouping is shown. A view in the Italian Room is illustrated in the circle. The whole comprises a most complete and beautifully arranged exhibit of artistic and decorative lighting fixtures of every type and style. You are cordially invited to come in at any time and, if desired, a representative in attendance will be glad to show you through—or you may go through alone as leisurely as you like.

On the main floor of our plant on Washington at Jefferson Avenue, we maintain a group of Retail Display Rooms, the most complete and beautifully arranged to be found anywhere in the country.

Here you will find a complete collection of fixtures of every type and style—period and staple designs; the newest ideas in floor lamps, table and bridge lamps; shades of silk or parchment with striking color combinations; stands of carved wood, compo and hand-wrought iron, with finishes of antique gold or polychrome, some with marble bases. Each a work of art. We also have on display a complete selection of andirons, fire sets and fire screens.

Edwin F. Guth lighting fixtures—identified by the hall mark of Guth Quality—are characterized by their delicacy of detail, symmetry of line and permanency of finish. Made of the very best materials by skilled artisans, they represent the advanced stage of perfection in this art.

In addition to standard units, such as Brascolite, Aglite, Aglite Jr., Magic-Lite, Concealite, Industrolite—and now Maze-Lite, a new fixture for the home—the company from its beginning has specialized in designing and building lighting fixtures of every kind and description and of every size. The great fixture which illuminates the dome of Missouri's three-million-dollar capitol—the largest lighting fixture ever built—is a product of this company.

Throughout the country, many of the finest homes, hotels, clubs, churches, schools, theatres, state capitols, municipal, bank and office buildings are equipped with lighting effects of Guth design and manufacture.

We cordially invite your inspection and solicit an opportunity to submit designs and estimates at any time without obligation

SOME NEW STYLE IN BOB

War-Hero Pigeons

By WINIFRED BLACK

ENGLAND is pensioning the war pigeons which were under fire during the World War. Strange pensioners, these, remembered and rewarded for carrying messages for the British navy and army. Taking orders and messages where there were neither roads nor telegraph nor telephone wires, from ships at sea to the shore and across the channel between England and France.

Strange little soldiers, gentle and faithful, now they are to be kept and fed by their official keeper, who must see that they're well cared for until they die.

There are war stories about these gentle birds. One is of No. 12, who was shot through one wing, but rallied and went on, bringing its dispatch to land. The information this bird carried saved the town of Bridlington from bombardment. This brave bird's mate was shot and killed by a German submarine.

And there among the other pensioned pigeons is "Flighty," who carried to the naval base news from the ships that took part in the battle of Jutland.

Nothing Stopped Them.

The seas could not keep these little adventurers from their homes. They flew on swift pinions to the land, bringing from the great ships words of warning or of cheer from the men who were far from home or from any word from their country.

Of all the creatures drafted into the military service, on land or sea, the gentle pigeons, symbols of peace since the world began, were the most strangely out of place. Yet they rendered good service like many a human being who went to war against all of his long-cherished habits.

When country calls everything else has to give way. And so we see, in many a hospital and many a room where humble people live, heroes who gave of their best when their country called.

As for the "veteran" pigeons, we may be sure that they are the pets of the place where they are kept. They are safe from war and war's terrible strain on the nerves—I wonder if they ever coo and preen among themselves, remembering stirring days gone by.

There is something mysterious about pigeons. They have ways of their own which nothing can make them forget. They seem docile and easily controlled, but each has a will of his own which he is bound to obey. There is the bravery of the spirit which is called upon to support traditions. They look, and are, timid and tender, but in their hearts dwell no fears, when it comes to making a flight for home.

Training and Breeding Required.

Once I had three pigeons given to me by a good man, and I took them home with me, perhaps some 50 miles from their home nests. They were young things and they seemed happy in their pretty house, but what a touch they kept, every minute of the hours.

First one, and then another, seized the opportunity to get away when the door was but slightly opened—with a flutter away they flew, straight toward their first home. And the remaining pigeon mourned and was so desolate that he was allowed to go, too—no one having the heart to keep him a prisoner.

He, also, flew away toward his old home, but he was too young to find it, after all, and none of the pigeons ever appeared in the home area. They were free, though, and I am sure they joined some company of pigeons near by and that they are still flying wild, at liberty, in their blue-gray suits.

It takes training, and flying breeding, too, in the making of carrier pigeons. In Great Britain there must be many who love the brave little pensioners in feathers, love them for their faithful bravery as well as for their beauty.

STUDENT, POET, LABORER

By WM. A. McKEEVER

A COLLEGE freshman who is a good student, an able poet and a reliable common laborer is a rare personality, but I have found one and learned a lesson from him.

This youth of peculiar makeup is earning his own way. A farmer boy, he stepped off to town and earned his high school expenses through labor as a sub reporter on a daily paper.

Now, away at college, the boy is still paying his own bills. Recently he found time to write some splendid philosophic verses, which are soon to fill an entire page of a well-known magazine. As a student of journalism he has already started gossip among his classmates and teachers.

But why should a poet and an embryo journalist continue in common labor, you ask? Now, that is the point whereat the boy becomes my teacher. By laboring three hours per day and eight on Saturday, he not only pays his expenses but he also keeps physically fit, and he substitutes the work for the required period of gymnasium practice.

Student, poet, philosopher, laborer—what a combination of talents and how significant for accomplishment on a large scale the world's work. In the poet and the philosopher, the dreamer and the doer, the extremes meet and form the virtuous personality.

The college gymnasium is a part of our hotbed civilization. It is for youths who do not have to work or who desire a soft substitute for the common labor which Divine Wisdom seems to have expected of man.

And here is a comedy-tragedy. Right in front of a big college gymnasium runs a half-mile of the worst stretch of public road in seven counties. The authorities cannot get laborers to grade or repair the road or to pave it, they say, and yet a thousand able-bodied but underdeveloped youths pass that way daily going to the gymnasium for exercise and health—millions of pounds of work energy going out in thrusters and kicks or contortions.

Some day we shall learn better. The entrance requirement for taking a gymnasium course will be a certificate of ability to perform some kind of manual labor.

But the boy who goes from the soft protection of a city home, without the discipline of common labor of any kind, and makes a little playful gymnasium practice his means of building a solid body and good health may succeed in a measure. But, judged in terms of human nature, he has been cheated. He has omitted one of the fundamental experiences of the race, the practice of the millions who toil and sweat to produce the world's necessary goods.

The student, the thinker, the dreamer, the laborer—these human ingredients are all in your boy. Bring them out through allround training.

CHAPTER VII. (Continued)

Douglas looked off across the garden to where a thin line of blue indicated the open sea. The situation in which he was now so unexpectedly placed appalled him. Caring for Jean as he did, he realized that should he proceed openly to attack her grandfather, possibly send him to jail, she would think it spite work on his part and be lost to him forever. And yet, as a patriotic American, he could not refuse, had, indeed, no wish to refuse, the task which Oliver Blair had assigned to him. The character of a man who would deliberately add to the burdens of the public many millions of dollars merely to increase his already swollen fortune deserved to be exposed, such a man deserved the severest punishment. Between his love for Jean and his duty to the people at large there could be no proper hesitation, yet the position in which circumstances placed him were distasteful to him in the extreme. Mr. Blair, observing him, sensed something of his emotions.

"Rather an unpleasant position for you, Kenyon," he said. "I don't doubt that if you cared to use this information as a club you could readily force old Carrington to consent to your marriage to Miss Bronson as the price of your silence. You have my permission to make any use of the evidence you see fit."

"Do you think me as low as that?" Douglas asked, bitterly—"to try to blackmail my way into the family?"

"No, I don't. I think you are going to see that the old scoundrel gets his just deserts, no matter who is hurt by it—even though it happens to be yourself."

"Yes, Mr. Blair. That's exactly what I am going to do. In a case like this personal feelings should not be allowed to enter. But I don't mind saying that I wish it had been anyone else than Miss Bronson's grandfather."

Blair took the papers Douglas had brought him and led the way indoors.

"I'll look these up," he said, "until tomorrow. You'll stay here tonight, and we'll motor up to town in the morning. Meanwhile, Jenkins will show you to your room. Come down when you're ready. Those friends I spoke of will drop in pretty soon. You'll enjoy meeting them. See you later."

Douglas followed the man upstairs. His satchel had preceded him. Half an hour later he wandered down the great staircase and began a search for Blair and his guests. Owing to the great size of the house, its two long wings stretching in both directions from the main hall, he was not at first certain just where to look for them. But presently he heard the sound of music, and passing through two smaller rooms, came at length to a huge apartment, 80 or more feet long, at the further end of which the pipes of an organ occupied the entire rear wall. The place was splendidly furnished and so large that Douglas did not at first perceive its occupants surrounding a table in a far corner. Sinking into a chair, he listened to the splendid tones of the organ until the composition, the Unfinished Symphony of Schubert, had been completed, then he strolled over to the table and was presented to Blair's guests. They included two men, one a Colonel in the army, the other, who was much younger, a well-known polo player of the smart Long Island set, and three women. Two of these were well-dressed and clever matrons; the third a young girl, not over 19, whose extraordinary beauty impressed Douglas no less than her vivaciousness and sparkling conversation. It was she who had been manipulating the stops of the organ at a mechanical player located at the opposite end of the room from the instrument itself. Douglas took a seat on a huge divan beside her, and they began to talk. Her selection of a topic astonished him.

"I've been trying to find someone who has been in Russia recently," she said. "Have you?"

"No," said Douglas, smiling.

"I've never been there. Why?"

"Because I want to find out the truth about this man Lenin. Some say he is the cruellest sort of an autocrat. Others, that he is a very great man, who has saved Russia from chaos. Which is true?"

"Possibly both," Douglas remarked. "But why are you so interested in Lenin?"

"Because, unless I am very much mistaken, he holds at present the future of Europe. Possibly of the world, in his hands. Don't you think we ought to know something about a man like that?"

"Yes," said Douglas. "I certainly do. But what surprises me is that a young girl such as you should be bothering your head about it."

Miss Ledyard—Douglas learned afterward that her father was a banker of international repute—gave him a quick, penetrating glance, in which there was a trace of amusement.

"I hope you're not one of those men who think that women can talk about nothing but children, servants and clothes," she replied. "I'm acting as a sort of secretary for my father this summer, and, naturally, as he has large interests abroad, the question of just what is going to happen in Europe is a very important one to both of us. In the last 2000 years the world has built up an extremely complex social system. The power of money has undoubtedly replaced the ancient power of arms. It may be a wrong system. I don't know. Nobody does, I guess. Lenin says it is wrong. His ideas, if successful, mean the destruction of that system. They mean throwing the world back 2000 years. It would not be a good thing for those who have money or brains, but they are in the minority. Would it be a good thing for the great majority of people who have neither? If it would, then I think it will succeed. But I hear from so many sources that the Russian people are far worse off now than they were under the Czar that I am inclined to believe the experiment has failed. What do you think?"

"It has failed," said Douglas, "because you cannot make men free and equal by passing laws saying they are so. There will always be some who are strong and some who are weak, some who are intelligent and some who are not, some who are honest and some who are dishonest. There is only one way, in my opinion, to set the world right."

"Oh!" Miss Ledyard laughed. "So you have a plan to remedy all our ills, too. What is it? I'm terribly interested."

"Education," Douglas said. "From the infant all the way up. Teach the child to think right and the man won't do wrong. That's my idea, but I admit it will take a long time—generations. You can't make the world over in a day."

Miss Ledyard dropped her bantering manner at once. The idea that Douglas had advanced seemed to interest her keenly.

"Do you know, Mr. Kenyon," she said, "I have an idea you may be right. Even here in America, where we claim all the virtues, we found during the war an amazing condition of illiteracy among the drafted men. An enormous percentage couldn't even read or write. That's because we pay baseball players and movie-pictures actors fortunes in the way of salaries and allow our school teachers to starve. I'd like to talk to you more about this some other time. Oh, Mr. Blair! Have you the 'Chanson Indoue' of Korakov? I'd love to play it."

Mr. Blair took the roll of music from a case and placed it in the machine, and a few moments later the wonderful organ tones filled the room. Douglas sat back, musing upon the vast difference between the many-sided life of a man like Blair and the narrow bigotry of the existence led by Joshua Carrington. Thoughts, too, of Miss Ledyard filled his mind, as he watched her strong, intelligent and very beautiful profile against the dull maroon of the wainscoted wall behind her. He had never met a woman just like this. In spite of his love for Jean Bronson he was forced to admit that her interests, due no doubt to her training, were narrow ones. When Miss Ledyard had finished playing, she began a spirited conversation with Van Lear, the polo player, on the subject of polo ponies, and it was evident that her listener received her opinions with respect. When, a little later, Blair asked her what she thought of a new picture he had bought, a brilliant bit by Goya, she seemed equally at home in the discussion of art. And the public, Douglas thought, with a smile, believed that the smart, fashionable crowd did nothing but smoke cigarettes and flirt. Blair told him the next day that the girl, whose mother had been dead for many years, had been raised by her father and spent much time abroad, which accounted to some extent for her cosmopolitan attitude toward life. He also said that she was very popular among the younger set, a fearless swimmer and rider, and one of the best dancers he had ever had for a partner.

Douglas and Blair spent the evening discussing the sugar deal in which Mr. Carrington was involved. The young man's thoughts were all of Jean Bronson. He wondered what attitude she would take toward him were her grandfather to go to jail as a result of his efforts.

THE agitating question these days is not so much, "Shall I have my hair bobbed?" as "HOW shall I have it bobbed?" And the unanimous, as well as authoritative, answer of the hairdressers interviewed in the interest of this sketch, is: "Short at the back, clipped for an inch or two at the nape of the neck, shingled with an outward, upward slant toward the crown of the head, and left rather long at the sides over the ears."

Then "shall it be worn parted or straight back?" brings the response: "Either way, though the part at the side is newer and the part in

A Sorry-Looking Little Bear

By Thornton W. Burgess

Stung once, think twice before you take another chance of a mistake.

SUCH a treat as Mother Bear and Brother and Sister were having! My, my, my, such a treat! Mother Bear had torn wide open the storehouse of the bees. She would scoop out great pieces of comb, dripping with honey, and toss them to Brother and Sister. The air was so filled with bees, fighting mad. When Mother Bear had finally torn up their storehouse they had known that it was useless to fight longer and had at once begun loading themselves with honey to take away to start a new storehouse with.

Brother and Sister, who had obeyed Mother Bear and remained right where she had told them to, hadn't been stung once. But Littiest Bear was a sorry sight. Yes, indeed, Littiest Bear was a sorry-looking little Bear. One eye was so swollen that she couldn't see out of it at all. Her lips were swollen. She had been stung on her body in many places where the bees had worked down into her fur. She had been stung on her paws.

Instead of rushing to join her brother and sister, Littiest Bear hung back. In the first place, she was ashamed. In the second place, she was still afraid. She was afraid that there might still be some of those bees around. She was afraid of Mother Bear. So Littiest Bear hung back.

"Yum, yum!" said Brother, as he crammed a big piece of comb dripping with honey into his mouth. "Oh-ooo!" said Sister, as she greedily reached for an even bigger piece. Mother Bear looked over at sorry-looking Littiest Bear. There was a twinkle in Mother Bear's eyes. She knew how very, very miserable Littiest Bear felt. She herself had been stung much worse than Littiest Bear. But her skin was tougher than Littiest Bear's skin. Moreover, she had been stung many times before and she knew that the pain would not last long.

She pulled out a piece of comb and tossed it so that it fell at the feet of Littiest Bear. Then Littiest Bear knew that she no longer had any.

"Yum, yum!" said Brother, as he crammed a big piece of comb dripping with honey into his mouth.

time the stomachs of the little Bears were so full that they were almost like little balloons.

As Mother Bear led them away to lie down for a nap Littiest Bear kept close to Mother Bear's heels. She was still a sorry-looking little Bear. But she no longer whined. Mother Bear stopped at the Laughing Brook and rubbed her face in mud on the edge of it. She told Littiest Bear to do the same thing. It took out some of the ache from her swollen face. But when they moved on again Littiest Bear was an even sorer-looking Bear than she had been before.

The Proper Way to Screen YOUR HOME

By MRS. CHRISTINE FREDERICK

(Copyright, 1923.)

WITH the first warm days there is a rush of insect immigrants attempting to land within the home boundary. Flies, mosquitoes, mths, cockchafers and others even more undesirable swarm from alien climes to storm through the windows and thus gain access to food and furnishings. And the housekeeper must be her own immigration commissioner and refuse them admittance.

A well screened home is the best means of keeping out insect pests, who carry on their legs the dangerous germs of summer complaint, typhoid and even infantile paralysis. Flies breed in filth and bring harmful bacteria onto every bit of food or surface that they touch. Flies in the home are a sign of careless housekeeping. They are positively dangerous and not a fly should be allowed inside the house or room. In rooms where heat and odor are greatest, as in kitchen and bath, the top of the window should always be screened for greater ventilation. Always purchase the best of metal screen cloth, as nothing so easily as cheap wire. Beating up screens, treat them with two coats of extra black special screen paint. This kills the wire and prevents it from rusting.

Copper screening or that of metal costs more but is added price where screens are on a permanent basis. Copper panels to fit each window are a real economy in the end, as use of loose screen cloth leads onto window or porch.

If last year's screens are rusted away it is really no matter for the housewife to buy in her new wire cloth. Measure the width of the door or window and purchase screening by the yard in nearly the exact width. Find that all bought screens by tacking two flat strips of each side of the screen cloth, these strips with the hammer, being careful not to tear the work on the frame there is plenty of room. The screen cloth on the window place the top strip and put nails in the old holes. It will

the middle is newer still. The middle lends itself well to the bang, which is the newest. The young Duchess of York, for that matter. All her hair is cut in a bang. The popularity of the royal bride and her press, was excuse enough for the fashion hunters to produce something new and chic in hairdressing. The popularity of the little bang is said to account for the shingled, short-backed bob. An untidy fringe of hair, pressed against the back of the neck and showing below the close fitting bonnet, was not to be thought of. To obviate this, the hairdresser ruthlessly runs the clippers up the back of the head and then, if all is not yet as smooth as it should be, he gets a razor and shaves the space. Asked if the client, so trusting and helpless in his hands, was not storing up a lot of future trouble in the way of a crop of bristles, the hairdresser shrugged his shoulders indifferently and replied, "It is the fashion. It must be so. We can't have that untidy fringe showing beneath the hat."

screened for greater ventilation. Always purchase the best quality metal screen cloth, as nothing so easily as cheap wire. Before putting up screens, treat them to two coats of either black or special screen paint. This prevents the wire and prevents it from rusting.

Copper screening or that of metal costs more but is worth added price where screens are on a permanent home. Special panels to fit each window or onto window or porch supports.

If last year's screens are partially rusted away it is really an easy matter for the housewife herself to install her new wire cloth. Measure width of the door or window and purchase screening by the yard in nearly this exact width. You find that all bought screens are only tacking two flat strips of wire each side of the screen cloth. Pry these strips with the claw of a hammer, being careful not to damage the screen.

Do the work on the floor where there is plenty of room. Fit the screen cloth on the underframe, place the top strip and put new nails in the old holes. It takes which can be adjusted to such a screen and which by the mere action of the summer breeze will make a current of air and thus remove heat and surplus odor. Many small rear porches can be made into healthful summer sleeping quarters if protected against insects. Purchase 1 1/2 inch thin stripping by the foot in quantity to make the necessary supports on which to tack the screen cloth. Select very fine mesh. Mount on the support and put in place. Slat or other porch screens of wood may be used for added privacy and shade. Every home should be well protected against insect undesirables during the summer months. Adequate screening should be considered a necessary step to protect health and prevent annoyance from the many winged visitors anxious to settle in our homes.

TYPES OF MEN EVERY GIRL MEETS

By BETTY VINCENT

The Pessimist (The Out-of-Luck Chap)

(Copyright, 1923.)

VERY few girls care for this young man. Occasionally a girl takes pity on him and tries to cheer him up or give him a different outlook on life, but usually her relatives or friends advise her to give him up. He is always out of luck. His boss never appreciates him, his father doesn't understand him and the whole world utterly fails to realize what a splendid fellow he is.

If he takes a girl to the theater he leaves his tickets in his other suit and they miss the first act. If his girl meets another chap and is even courteous to him his evening is spoiled. No matter what the girl does, something is bound to occur which will not suit the pessimist.

And yet there is a certain type of girl who can manage this young man, and, strange to say, she is usually the most vivacious, daring girl in the crowd. She must realize in the beginning that this young man is going to be cross, see life at its worst angle and always blame someone else for his ill luck. But if she can give him some of her own humor and make him see himself as others see him, she can gradually win him over to the other side and make a full-fledged optimist of him.

A certain very happy, carefree little maid became interested in a typical pessimist and today has one of the finest husbands in the land. "The only reason I thought so much of Oliver," declares this young wife, "is because he never built air castles and sat by to watch them topple."

And that is the one redeeming trait the pessimist possesses! He does not promise a million and one things and then fall flat. He never chases rainbows and expects to be President of the United States or even of his own company. He is just what he is and never expects the world to make anything more of him!

But no girl on earth can be happy with this pessimist and out-of-luck chap unless she can change his point of view. If she can make him see things through her eyes and not take life too seriously things may go along very well, but if he is the stronger nature and is going to make her outlook blur it is better for her to give this man up and leave him for another girl.

There are just a few ways to test this pessimist, and if he fails to respond to these he is quite hopeless.

The test of humor. The test of interest in others. The test of kindness when others are in trouble.

If you tell him three good jokes and he fails to laugh, give him up. If you tell him a bit of gossip about some of your friends and he shows no interest, give him up. If you tell him a sad story about some of your friends and he fails to show any interest or express his sympathy, give him up. Otherwise you may change your pessimist into an optimist.

How Cold Cream Will Help You Win New Beauty

By LUCREZIA BORI

MOST women who have passed the first bloom of youth realize the value of a good cold cream in keeping a well-nourished skin. You must nourish your skin properly if it is to show the best beauty results.

If you are familiar with the texture of your skin a little casting about will find the right cream for you. This accomplished, you must realize there are two functions for cream—to nourish your skin and to cleanse it. Now, there are many special creams made for each purpose, but it is very possible to find a pure cold cream that serves both purposes at once, depending upon the way it is applied.

Here is an excellent cream of this twofold character, and I'll tell you exactly how to use it:

Lanolin ..... 2 1/2 ounces
Spermaceti ..... 1/4 ounce
Oil sweet almonds ..... 2 ounces
Fresh mutton tallow ..... 2 1/2 ounces
Cocunut oil ..... 2 ounces
Tincture benzoin ..... 1/2 dram
Portugal extract ..... 3 ounces
Oil of neroli ..... 10 drops

Have your druggist mix this. You may find it a bit more expensive than some cold creams, but it pays to have the best where a delicate complexion is concerned.

Now, when you wish to use this as a cleanser, simply rub it carefully into your skin, leave it in a few minutes, and rub it off with a bit of soft old linen or gauze. You can buy small tissue paper squares put up in packages for this purpose. They are soft to your skin, and are convenient because you can destroy them after using.

When you want to feed your skin as you feed the roots of the delicate plant, you proceed in a different way from the cleansing process.

Wash your face carefully before you go to bed at night. Use any pure, good soap, olive-oil castile, for instance. Be very careful to remove every speck of soap from your skin. Rinse it repeatedly, and dry on a soft towel. Use a soft, patting motion for this drying, rather than actual rubbing. You can rub it a little, provided the motion is upward and outward. This does away with all danger of influencing muscles to sag at the corners of the eyes and the corners of the mouth and nose. Drying upward helps give that upward tilt of countenance which adds beauty to the contour.

Now, dip your finger tips lightly into the cold cream and apply it sparingly to your face. Never use great lumps of it, but simply a light, fine coating which the hungry tissues can drink in.

And, by the way, here's a splendid test of whether your tissues really are hungry or not. Pat the cold cream into your skin and see if it is absorbed quickly. If it is, your skin is in need of nourishment. If not, you may feel it legs often.

Your skin shouldn't need feeding every night. You can test whether it's hungry or not by the aforesaid method, and if it is, twice a week should be often enough to feed it. Other nights your pores should be left free to breathe in the pure air that streams through your bedroom windows. This revitalizes your tissues and is equally as important as the cold cream which nourishes them.

And a last word of encouragement. Your skin, like your hair, is quick and generous in its response to kind treatment. Try treating it well and you will be gratified by the generous measure in which it enhances your charm.

ESCALLOPED TOMATOES

THREE cups canned tomatoes, three teaspoonsful melted butter, one teaspoonful minced onion, three cups diced bread. Scald tomatoes with the onion, adding more seasoning if necessary. As a rule tomatoes should not be seasoned too highly, as it spoils the flavor. A little sugar may be added if liked. Brown bread cubes in oven, mix with melted butter until the butter is absorbed, fill baking dish with alternate layers of bread cubes and tomatoes, cover top with bread crumbs and brown in a quick oven.

Mother is the Health Doctor

How Contagions Spread

—Children are the victims.

CHILDHOOD knows no snobbery. In the world of school and play, all children are equal. Youngsters from homes less clean than yours come in intimate contact with your children.

Mothers are often shocked at the ugly skin diseases their children contract. Your children are lucky if they escape with nothing worse.

For great medical authorities constantly warn against the filth that soils the skin of children. It is not "clean dirt"—it is highly dangerous. In it are countless disease germs.

You cannot prevent exposure to it, but you can do much to prevent its effects. You must make sure that the youngsters are completely cleaned, perfectly purified, whenever they come in from the street.

Combats the Danger

Your great ally is the health soap—Lifebuoy. This remarkable soap contains an ADDED ingredient. It is the famous health element that penetrates each dirt-laden pore. Rich, creamy lather carries it into every cranny of the skin. The effects are unique. Circulation is stimulated. Blemishes yield. The skin is deodorized. Dangerous dirt is removed. Your husband and children need this sure protection. And you'll find they prefer this fine soap. Men especially prize it. That's why so many men have clear, radiant skin.

Give it to them freely. Be sure a cake is at every place where there is running water.

You can always recognize the true health soap by COLOR and ODOR. Natural, rich palm-fruit oil is red. So Lifebuoy is RED. The unique health element gives Lifebuoy its pungent, healthful odor. Rely on Lifebuoy.

The Man on the Sandbox

VIVE LE ROI.

THE laurels were stripped from our Johnny Kilbane in a manner decidedly clever; His crown he'd defended again and again, But he couldn't continue forever. Though Crigui's jawbone was supplied by a sheep He failed in his efforts to put him to sleep.

Around his opponent he started to dance, And for a good opening fiddled; But he couldn't connect with the hero from France, Whom many a bullet had riddled. In a pair of soft gloves there was nothing to awe A guy who'd stopped bullets in France with his jaw.

Three cheers and a tiger for Mons. Eugene, Three cheers for the sheep and the shepherd; And for his opponent who battled so clean Three rousing huzzahs and a leopard. Though the featherweight crown from our country must pass We're glad it was won by a man of such class.

PRETTY SOFT.

Johnny Kilbane was toppled from his throne, but fell back on a huge bundle of kale that broke the fall considerably.

Keeping his crown on straight for 11 years made Johnny gray-headed. Relieved of the burdens of royalty, Johnny will have nothing to worry about in the future unless it be coupon-clipper's cramp.

Uneasy lies the head that wears a crown. Johnny says you have no idea how heavy a featherweight crown is.

While crowns are changing hands or heads, Pancho Villa will try to lift the flyweight tiara from the classic dome of Jimmy Wilde.

Er-Kaiser Will is now wearing whiskers. Don't blame him for wanting to hide his face.

SURE.

The Public Service Commission has placed the valuation of the United Railways for rate-making purposes at $51,761,354. Does that include water and everything?

In the meantime the company standing on its riparian rights insists that the property is worth $79,000,000 in more or less round numbers.

Be that as it may, the 7-cent fare will remain in effect until such time as the company gets its head above water.

A turtle caught on the street in Bogalusa was sent to this office with the suggestion that the Browns might use him. What for, a pacemaker?

"Swiss People Vote Against Prohibition."

The Swiss bell ringers are all dead, but the Swiss welkin ringers are still on the job.

"Douglas Will Fight Shoe Union to Finish."

In other words he'll stick to the last.

See where a man out hunting a mess of frog-legs shot himself in the leg. A case of mistaken identity, we take it.

HOME TRAINING.

The victory of Eugene Criqui was a feather in the bonnet of Mune. Criqui, who assisted in the training of her husband.

HOW TIME FLIES, TO BE SURE.

AS Harris Dickson tells the story, a negro in Snower County, Miss., was tried and convicted of murder and sentenced for a certain date. After he had been returned to his cell to await the time of execution it would appear that he practically was forgotten. The lawyer who had been appointed by the Court to defend him lost interest in the case. He neither moved for a new trial nor did he take an appeal from the verdict.

Time slipped by until, finally, it dawned upon the condemned darky that, unless he took steps in his own behalf, something of a highly unpleasant nature shortly would be happening. So he sat down and himself wrote a letter to the Governor of the State, reading as follows:

"Dear Governor: The white folks is got me in the jail here at this place and I'm in the middle of a right bad fix. So I teks my pen in hand to ask you please, Mister governor, to do something fur me right away! 'Cause dey is fixin' to hang me on Friday. And here 'tis Wednesday already!"

BOY, 14, HIT BY PITCHED BALL IN SCHOOL GAME, DIES

Charles Olemander of Arlington Team Fatally Hurt in Contest for School League Championship.

CARRIED FROM THE FIELD UNCONSCIOUS

Teammates, Not Knowing Injury Was Serious, Continued Play, Winning
From Mt. Pleasant.

Arlington School won its game with Mt. Pleasant School in the elimination for the championship of the Public School League yesterday afternoon, but it was at the cost of the life of Charles Olemander, 14 years old, son of Otto Olemander, 1922 Temple avenue. A pitched ball fractured his skull in the fifth inning of the game.

In the supposition that his injury was not serious the game was continued after he was carried from the field, and Arlington won by the score of 3 to 2. The accident occurred at 4:30 o'clock. At 6 o'clock the boy died at Barnes Hospital.

There was great interest in the game, which was played at grounds No. 8 in Forest Park. A large crowd of pupils of the two schools and their relatives was on hand. The score was 3 to 2 in the fifth inning, when Charles Olemander, second baseman for the Arlington team, went to bat. Arthur Stauder, 14 years old, of 1911 Lamp avenue, was pitching for the Mt. Pleasant team. He threw a swift, straight ball which struck Charles in the head. The batsman fell to the ground.

Teachers and policemen who ran to him found him unconscious and as he was carried from the field it was evident he was partially paralyzed, but it was not thought that he could have received a mortal hurt, and after he had been taken away to the hospital the game was resumed and played to its conclusion, with Arlington winning by the same score, 3 to 2.

At the hospital, however, it was found Charles had a serious fracture and he died without having regained consciousness. The majority of Arlington pupils went to school this morning without knowing that their schoolmate had paid the price of his devotion to his school and his team. There was grief among the children as the word was passed that Charles Olemander was dead. The information put a check upon the preparations for the school picnic, scheduled for Saturday, but after a conference of members of the Parents' Association, Leo Doyon, the president, announced the picnic would take place.

The funeral will be at 2:30 p. m. Sunday from an undertaker's chapel at 5211 Easton avenue. Members of the Arlington team have asked to be permitted to serve as pallbearers.

Charles was a member of this year's graduating class. On account of his death, Principal S. C. Brightman announced today the withdrawal of the Arlington team from the championship elimination series.
